NO. 33[illegible] PRICE 5 CENTS

[illegible]E, March 20—Overproduction of farm commodities [is] blamed Saturday for high prices and [illegible] [Wo]od, Corvallis, Ore., a member of President [Eisenhower's] [n]ational agricultural advisory committee.

[A]ddressing the 500 persons attending the [illegible] [meet]ing of the Jerome Cooperative Creamery, said a [plan] must be worked out that will not only be good for [the farme]r but for all of the American people as well. He said it may take years to get consumption and production together but that that is the aim of the national agricultural program.

The speaker surveyed the problem from three sides. He said farmers take all the risks, sell on a free market, buy on a protected market and feel that since the government supports the railroads and the airports and gives guarantees to the manufacturers, they should have a similar guarantee in support prices.

Consumers, on the other hand, claim prices are too high because of support prices. They point to the $500,000,000 spent each year for interest on the storage of commodities bought by the government under price support programs.

Businessmen claim they have to meet their payrolls and pay their rent and taxes and get no support from the government at all.

Wood also pointed out that the government has invested $6,500,000,000 in price supports and that President Eisenhower has asked for an additional $1,500,000,000 to meet additional supports.

He said the farm problem now has become a problem of the farmer, the consumer and the businessman combined. It is a problem of producing more then the country uses, he added. The situation cannot be changed overnight, he said, for as soon as one commodity is decreased another is grown and takes its place as a surplus.

Price supports, he said, should be gradually decreased while the production and consumption of agricultural commodities are being brought into line.

'Spring, Wrapped In Snow, Is Here

[illegible] at [illegible] p.m. Saturday.

Most of the snow that fell in the valley preceded the official advent of the [illegible] season but while spring was in the [illegible] Burley she wore a heavy mantle of snow.

The CAA in Burley reported snow off and on throughout the day but the fall was especially heavy in the evening. The temperature stood at 34 degrees, however, and the snow melted as fast as it hit the ground.

Twin Falls had a light fall of snow early Saturday morning and some rain Saturday afternoon. Shoshone also had a little snow throughout the day while Fairfield had a "little more."

Three inches of snow fell at Hailey, four at Ketchum, six at Galena and eight at Sun Valley.

East of Rupert also had between two and three inches of snow late Saturday and about an inch of snow is covering the ground south of Hollister to the state line.

All roads in the area, including the one over Galena summit, were open at a late hour Saturday. The state highway department recommends the use of chains if motorists intend to try the summit on Sunday, however.

[Pu]blic Power Franking [R]ow Dies Amid Shouts; Mrs. Pfost Backed Plan

(See Editorial on Page Four)

(From Associated Press, United Press and Staff Correspondent)

The two week controversy over plans to mail 173,000 free franked envelopes containing pro-public power material to Idaho died in a flurry of shouting and clipped "no comment" statements Saturday.

But several facts stood out unchallenged in the last-minute exchange of statements. Chief of these was that the plan to send the free-franked envelopes to Idaho, was engineered by Rep. Gracie Pfost, D., Ida., on behalf of Asher B. Wilson, chairman of the Idaho Citizens Legislative Committee, Inc.

With that action attributed squarely to her, Mrs. Pfost had no further comment Saturday. She neither admitted nor denied she engineered the entire plan, as was charged several days ago. At that time she denied any knowledge or connection with it. Saturday, Mrs. Pfost's office said she did not have any further comment of any kind.

But when flatly accused by Rep. Harold A. Patten, D., Ariz., Mrs. Pfost had plenty to say. Patten finally said Mrs. Pfost had gotten him to insert the material in the Congressional Record and order 180,000 reprints. He said he regretted being "mouse-trapped into a situation that was none of my business."

That's when Mrs. Pfost issued this statement in the nature of a smokescreen:

"I suppose I should no longer be surprised at the length to which the power companies will go to achieve their ends. In this case that end is to keep information about the proposed power initiative from reaching the people of Idaho.

"As I said earlier this week, the initiative movement indicates to me that Idaho citizens are awakening to the fact that our present power rates prohibit industrial expansion in our state. Such thinking strikes directly at the security of the Idaho Power company so they have evidently called in their stooges, Sen. Herman Welker and Cong. Hamer Budge, to help them in their effort to keep the people in the dark.

"But I am confident the people will see through what is happening. The people are too smart to be fooled."

Rep. Hamer Budge, R., Ida., was asked for comment on Mrs. Pfost's charge of "stooge" for the Idaho Power company.

"The first thing that occurs to me is just who is the stooge in this matter?" commented Budge.

"I have before me a copy of the Idaho Statesman of March 15 in which an Associated Press article related to this matter reads as follows:

"'Mrs. Pfost replied that she understood from newspaper clippings that the envelopes had gone out a week or two ago, and she added that she had had nothing to do with the matter.'

"The truth is, as Mrs. Pfost has known from its inception, that she personally engineered the whole operation. She gave the materials to Patten, her office handled the checks to pay for it, in spite of her vigorous denials that she had nothing to do with it.

"The truth finally came out and when it did Mrs. Pfost immediately attacked people who have never contacted me in relation to the matter and with whom I have not discussed it."

Senator Walker also attempted to pin Mrs. Pfost to the facts of the case. Concerning the "stooge" charge, he said:

"I am very much surprised at Mrs. Pfost's ridiculous and false statement that I am or ever have been a stooge of the Idaho Power company," said Welker.

"That's an old and worn-out record used by people caught in embarrassing positions. The sole question before the people of Idaho, Mrs. Pfost, is this:

"Did you tell the truth when you said you had no knowledge of the transaction? You were caught in the beartrap of Representative Patten, an honest man you misled. Idaho is embarrassed and you aren't going to get out of this by yelling 'Idaho Power company stooge.'

"Most of the people of Idaho certainly know this is a ridiculously false accusation. In the 25 years I have practiced law, the Idaho Power company paid me $15 to examine the abstract of a lot at Cambridge.

"Mrs. Pfost, I hope you'll get back in the track and try to undo the irreparable damage to our state and to Arizona and to a splendid congressman. It would be so much better than to cry that those who discovered your actions are stooges of some power comany."

The other principal in the case, Asher Wilson, Twin Falls attorney, was contacted in Lewiston late Friday after many earlier efforts to contact him had been fruitless. He refused comment. A check made by Wilson had been used to pay about half of the printing costs for the 160,000 reprints. Other checks in the payment had been given to Wilson by various Idahoans for use in efforts to promote a federal dam at the controversial Hells canyon site. Some of the checks were almost a year old.

The case first came to light when Congressman Patten said Asher Wilson and "some other people" had prevailed on him to insert the material in the Congressional Record. At the time, Patten said the power and communications initiative would start a program similar to one operated successfully in Arizona.

But the Arizona congressman looked into the matter, declared the

USDA to Begin Buying Potatoes Soon for Limited Price Supports

WASHINGTON, March 20 (U.P.)—A high agriculture department official said today the government soon will begin buying surplus potatoes to bolster prices.

It will be the first government aid to potato growers since congress killed potato price supports in 1950 after a wave of public protest against waste and spoilage in government potato stocks. The spokesman said a new federal purchase program probably will be announced Monday. He implied it would be relatively small.

The decision followed heavy pressure from Idaho and Maine senators earlier this week and several capitol hill conferences between these legislators and agriculture department officials.

An important factor in the decision, apparently was the federal crop report released Friday, showing prospective 1954 potato acreage at 1,364,000, down 11 per cent from 1953.

Request Denied

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson, in turning down a request for government potato buying several weeks ago, had said such buying might lead growers to plant heavily again this year and increase the surplus.

The crop report showed farmers in Idaho and Wyoming planned slight increases in planting this year. But virtually all other important potato growing states reported cuts ranging up to 32 per cent in early-harvest California areas. Maine reported a prospective nine per cent cut.

Programs Differ

The potato buying program approved by Benson and his top aides differs from the support program which collapsed in 1950.

Under that program, the government was committed to support the entire crop and had to buy all potatoes offered by growers at the support price. Under the new surplus disposal operation, agriculture department officials must limit purchases to amounts that can be used to available outlets. These might include alcohol plants, animal feed or, to a smaller degree, school lunch programs.

No details were available today on the amount of potatoes the government expects to buy or the price it will pay.

Brakeman Crushed By Coal Car, Truck

A Union Pacific brakeman was injured critically Saturday night when he was crushed between the coal car he was riding and a one and one-half ton stock truck near the Twin Falls stockyards. Police said the injured trainman, Cecil J. Harkins, 39, Twin Falls, was apparently riding the front end of the first car as the train backed westward along the spur. He was pinned against the train by the truck attempting to cross the tracks from a narrow alley. The moving train wedged the truck between the rail car and a warehouse belonging to the Trinidad Bean company.

At midnight Magic Valley Memorial hospital attendants said Harkins was still on the operating table after nearly five hours in surgery.

Louis E. Reddick, Jerome, driver of the 1950 Chevrolet truck, was trapped temporarily in the crumpled cab, but was uninjured.

Reddick had turned into the alley between the bean company warehouse and a Utah Oil company warehouse from Railroad avenue on his way to the stockyards.

He said he was driving the empty truck in low gear at the time of the collision.

Police said the accident still was under investigation.

Driver Gets 40 Days For Three Violations

Harvey Vader, Twin Falls, who was acquitted of involuntary manslaughter early this month in the death of Kenneth L. Emerson, Jerome, but who was found guilty by a district court jury of unlawful speeding, unlawful passing and reckless driving, was sentenced Saturday to 40 days in the county jail. District Judge Hugh A. Baker granted a stay of execution until Monday but he also fined Vader $250 and suspended his driving license for 30 days.

The district judge sentenced Vader to 20 days on the reckless driving conviction, 10 days on the unlawful speed conviction and 10 days for unlawful passing.

Dennis J. Williams, Lapwai, was sentenced to 10 days in the city jail and fined $100 and $3 costs in Twin Falls police court Saturday when he pleaded guilty to drunken driving.

Williams was arrested by city police Friday night after his car went out of control and sheared off a power pole at Sydney and Diamond streets.

A passenger in the car, Peggy Roberts, Twin Falls, was released from Magic Valley Memorial hospital Saturday after being treated for minor head and face lacerations received in the crash.

Police estimated damage to the front of Williams' 1950 Pontiac at $500.

Cedric Errol Francis, address unknown was fined $10 and costs by Shoshone Police Judge Frank Bayliss Friday on a charge of negligent driving.

Theodore C. Anderson, Pocatello, was fined $7.50 Thursday by Wendell Police Judge Dave Collett on a charge of speeding in a 20-mile zone.

Mary Thomas, Jerome, was fined $10 for speeding in the school zone Thursday by Judge Collett. Both arrests were made by LeRoy Burkitt.

Power Issues Suggested by Demo Leader

LEWISTON, March 20 (AP)—Tennessee Gov. Frank Clement Friday night called upon the Democrats to take a stand on "the public power issue" in its fight against the Republicans.

Speaking at a Jefferson-Jackson day banquet here, Clement said he could see "no more fundamental ground on which to take our stand on domestic policy than the public power issue."

Giveaway Charged

Clement termed the Republican party's power policy a "giveaway spree," and said there will be "more in that policy to embarrass the people of Idaho unless by your votes you reverse a give-away program which favors the few and restricts the many."

The interest of the majority of Idahoans, he said, would be served by returning Rep. Gracie Pfost, D., Ida., to congress.

Praises Fight

"Already," he said, "her fight for the full and comprehensive development of Hells canyon power potential has attracted the attention and widespread approval among those of us who see the need for abundant power in this country."

He indicated the issue actually was one of power versus private politics.

"On one side," Clement said, "You have the goal of abundant cheap power for all, while on the other side, you have concealed beneath platitudes and catch-phrases the purpose of the few to reap prohibitive profits that only come by skimming the cream from the increasing scarcity that it begets."

Hoover Rapped

The Tennessee governor also charged that former President Herbert Hoover, "the author of the greatest depression of modern times," is presiding over the Republican administration's program of liquidating the peoples assets.

He criticized Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay and Undersecretary Fred Aandahl as "enemies of public power development at any level of government."

USDA Report Predicts Crop Gains in 1954

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—American farmers will be operating close to their war-expanded capacity this year, despite the prospect of more surpluses, if they carry out planting plans reported to the government.

The agriculture department Friday forecast this year's acreage of corn—one of the surplus crops—at 81,037,000 acres, a decrease of four-tenths of 1 per cent from last year's crop.

The prospective acreage would produce a crop of 3,100,000,000 bushels if the acre yield should equal the 1948-52 average by states. Last year's crop was 3,176,615,000 bushels. The 10-year average was 3,036,000,000 bushels and the government's 1954 production goal is about 2,800,000,000 bushels.

The department also reported that a recent preplanting survey indicated that this year's acreage sown to spring wheat would be 24 per cent smaller than last year.

President Draws McCarthy Praise As Great Leader

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 20 (AP)—Senator McCarthy said tonight that while he does not think President Eisenhower is "a superman," his batting average as President is so high "that if Ike were running for office today, I'd feel compelled to campaign for him."

The senator referred to his relations with the President in a speech to a state Republican dinner, after renewing his advocacy of cutting off foreign aid funds to U. S. allies which continue to trade with red China.

He said that he knew that some people would say, "Oh, McCarthy is fighting Ike."

But the junior senator from Wisconsin said he thinks Eisenhower "is doing the best job he can." He added: "I don't think he is a superman."

Cancer Fund Drive School Set for T. F.

Campaign kits will be distributed and plans discussed for the April cancer drive at a training school for Twin Falls county volunteer cancer drive workers at 10 a. m. Tuesday at the Turf club, reports Mrs. Adolph Mahacek Buhl, Twin Falls county commander, Idaho division of the American Cancer Society.

About 25 community drive chairmen are expected to attend. A recorded message from Dr. Alfred Popma, Boise national society president, will be heard.

Similar kickoff meetings will be held Wednesday in Burley, March 30 in Rupert, March 31 in Buhl and April 1 in Jerome.

About $8,600 was raised in Twin Falls county last year.

Any civic organization which desires a program from the cancer society is asked to contact Mrs. C. E. Trout, phone 1667-M, or Mrs. Harry Elcock, phone 677.

REFUSES REPLY

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today he will not reply to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's "20-count indictment" of the Democratic party, declaring "I will not stoop to the senator's level."

Gain Claimed By Demos for Tax Cut Fight

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Both Democratic and Republican strategists claimed gains today after a brisk series of encounters on politically potent tax legislation.

Democrats believe the fight they lost by a narrow margin in the house to cut income taxes by raising personal exemptions may pay off when voters elect a new congress next November.

Block Forecast

Republicans say their defeat of the Democratic move has put them in position to block the income tax slash which President Eisenhower opposes even though the senate votes for it.

The attempt to boost exemptions by $100, at an annual cost of $2,400,000,000 in revenue, went down in the house on an almost straight party-line vote of 210-204.

The house then passed an omnibus tax revision bill, on which the Democrats made their move, and sent it to the senate, which may not vote on it for two or three months.

Cut Needed

Democrats argued the income tax cut is needed as a shot in the arm to lagging business and employment.

Republicans countered that the proposed exemption boost was an election year political maneuver and an irresponsible gesture in view of continued federal deficits. They said the GOP has presented a balanced tax program aiding both consumers and business.

Work Begins On Homes in New Project

Construction of the first four of 30 homes in a development to cost about $375,000 has started, reports Harold Shydler, home construction department director for Reynolds and Walker, project contractor.

The first four units will be three bedroom homes with one and one-half bathrooms and attached garages. The development will consist of two and three bedroom homes ranging in price from $10,000 to $12,500.

The homes will be of frame construction and will include hardwood floors and mahogany storage walls, perimeter heating, fireplaces, and ceramic tile shower wainscoating. The new dwellings are designed to provide the medium price field many of the luxury features found in much higher price homes, states Shydler.

Homes may be purchased with down payments from $500 to $625 for qualified veterans and with standard FHA terms for persons not veterans.

Site of the new development will be the Johnson subdivision off Washington street north.

River Project OK'd by 'Ike'

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower today approved a $930,343,000 power and irrigation development for the Upper Colorado river basin and recommended early congressional consideration.

He thus got firmly behind his administration's first major dam and power project, a vast undertaking designed to improve the water supply for farms and provide economic and industrial expansion for 3¾ million people in the five western states of Colorado, Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

A house interior subcommittee is expected to vote on the project early next week. It has had it under consideration for some time.

The President announced his approval of recommendations made by Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay after review by the budget bureau.

He called the project a "comprehensive, well-planned development of a river basin." He said it also carries out the administration's "approach to water resource development."

RAIN FUND DENIED

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The house appropriations committee has refused to recommend any money for "rainmaking" studies.

Probe for Air Crash Opens; 18 Men Dead

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—The air force called in technical specialists today to determine whether any part failed in a big cargo plane that crashed and exploded near Annapolis, Md., Friday night, killing 18 men.

Lieut.-Col. William E. Nix, head of an investigating board that spent much of today searching through wreckage and human remains scattered over Maryland farmland, said a specially trained officer from the air force safety branch in San Bernardino, Calif., would help in the investigation.

No Cause Found

Nix said the investigation so far had turned up "nothing confirmed" as to the cause of the crash.

He expressed doubt, however, at the accuracy of some witnesses' stories that they saw the big craft in flames overhead before it crashed.

Civilians Help

Nix said the investigating board, which already has had the help of civilian technicians from factories making aircraft parts, has "accomplished about all it can at the site" for the present.

Hurt

Two Twin Falls couples received minor injuries Saturday night in an automobile accident on highway 93 south of Rogerson.

Magic Valley Memorial hospital attendants identified the accident victims as two brothers, Jack F. Leclair, Lloyd Leclair and their wives. The hospital reported all four were in good condition.

Details of the accident were not available immediately.

Dietrich Station Closing Is OK'd

BOISE, March 20 (AP)—The Idaho public utilities commission today gave the Union Pacific railroad permission to close its agency at Dietrich the year around.

The station has been kept open six months a year in recent years, and the PUC order said the year-around closure was granted with the understanding that the railroad would be "more diligent" in providing service to the area.

The railroad, it said, agreed to maintain "a satisfactory and efficient key arrangement" for less-than carload shipments and milk and cream shipments.

Under the arrangement, a station key will be left at the postoffice, and the Shoshone agent will handle car orders and telegrams and notify Dietrich residents of incoming shipments.

The Union Pacific claimed that the revenue did not justify the expense of the agency.

ANNIVERSARY NOTED

RIPON, Wis., March 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower ignited a "freedom flame" tonight to mark the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Republican party and urged his fellow Republicans to face the future with "faith, hope and courage to fulfill their responsibilities."

Chess Tourney Narrowed to Six Experts; Final Set Today

Winner's bracket of the 1954 Idaho state chess tournament was narrowed to six experts Saturday night, according to Lloyd Klimpton, tournament chairman.

Still in the running for the tournament honors are William Taber, Reno, Maurice Gedance, Las Vegas; Fred Byran, San Francisco, Irvin Taylor, Salt Lake City, and Lloyd and Lavell Klimpton, both Twin Falls.

From the six will emerge the tournament champions. The top ranking Idaho player will be named Idaho state champion and the tournament winner will be crowned Idaho invitational champion.

Matches will resume at 9:30 a.m. today in the Blue room of the Rogerson hotel and last until 12:30 p.m. Afternoon matches are scheduled from 1:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Winners will receive trophies at a banquet beginning at 7 p.m. at the Rogerson hotel. Three medals and six chess books also will be presented to winners.

Donald Murphy, Twin Falls, is in charge of banquet arrangements and will be toastmaster. The public is invited to attend the banquet and watch chess tourney matches, Klimpton stressed.

About 100 spectators have watched matches thus far.

Twenty-six players from four states opened the three-day state tournament Friday. An eight-round Swiss system of winners playing winners and losers vs. losers is being used.

Valley Hatcheries, Bird Farm Prepare For Visitors Throughout Wildlife Week

Magic Valley residents observing national Wildlife week, March 21 to 27, have a good chance to see accomplishments without traveling too far.

State fish and game department installations in the area are ready for a larger influx of visitors this week. Nearby installations include the Twin Falls fish hatchery, the large fish hatchery and game refuge at Hagerman, Hayspur hatchery and the upland game bird farm at Jerome.

Sponsored annually by the National Wildlife federation and state affiliates since 1938, the week was established by presidential proclamation.

It is based on a nation-wide educational campaign to focus public attention on the importance of natural resources and the broad problems of conservation.

Ed Dodd, creator of the wildlife cartoon strip "Mark Trail," is the national chairman. The 1954 theme is water pollution control and the slogan, "Clean Water for All America."

In line with the educational phase of the week, the state is urging residents to visit the various wildlife installations throughout Idaho to see what is being done for wildlife conservation.

Nearest point of interest for Twin Falls residents is the Twin Falls fish hatchery. Although actually owned by the Southern Idaho Fish and Game association, the hatchery is leased and operated by the state.

A small installation compared to the Hagerman hatchery, the local

Work Sought On Roads for County Areas

Requests for road improvements were made at the bi-monthly meeting of the Twin Falls highway district board of commissioners day at the district offices.

A delegation from Buhl asked the highway district to improve the south side of Lilly grade and gravel some of the Rosworth tract roads. The road director was authorized to proceed with ... as previously planned.

A request that the board appropriate money to cover part of the cost of improving Idaho highway 25 from Washington school to the city limits was presented by a delegation from Addison avenue east.

The request was taken under advisement and no action taken until further study of the matter can be made.

Joseph Latimore, Twin Falls city manager, and Robert Balleisen, city attorney, appeared before the board seeking a more favorable distribution between the city and highway district of gasoline tax and motor license fees received from the state. The request was held over for further study.

Services Held for Henry F. Kramer

BUHL, March 20—Funeral services for Henry F. Kramer were held Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church with the Rev. Charles Easley officiating. Concluding service were held at the Buhl cemetery.

Ike Approves Farm Aid Bill

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday signed a bill providing an extra 1¼ billion dollars for farm price supports this year.

The bill would increase to 8½ billions the borrowing power of the agriculture department's commodity credit corporation.

This is the agency which supports farm prices and Senator Aiken, R., Vt., said in senate debate on the bill that it was down to its last 250 million dollars. He explained it had invested 6½ billions in the program accumulating vast stocks of surplus farm products—cotton, wheat, butter and other commodities.

Aiken said the new funds should be enough to carry out promised price supports on all of this year's crops unless there are unusually heavy harvests, or a sharp decline in business activity.

In either of those cases, Aiken said, the CCC will be back asking congress for more money.

Wholesale Prices Index Unchanged

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Average wholesale prices as measured by the bureau of labor statistics remained unchanged during the week ended March 16.

The bureau reported Friday its index stayed at 110.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average.

It said higher average prices for processed foods were offset by lower average prices for farm products and industrial material.

USDA Report Predicts Crop Gains in 1954

(From Page One)

Such an acreage would produce a crop of about 223,000,000 bushels at average state acreage yields.

By comparison last year's spring wheat crop was 291,025,000 bushels and the 10 year average ... 911,000.

Wheat Crop Cut

The department previously had reported that the acreage planted to winter wheat was 18 per cent smaller than last year. The winter wheat crop was forecast at 750,000,000 bushels compared with last year's production of 877,511,000 and the 10-year average of 797,237,000.

Thus the total wheat crop—winter and spring—would be 973,000,000 bushels. Last year's combined crop was 1,168,536,000 bushels compared with 1,089,848,000 for the 10 year average.

Yields Compared

The department made these other crop production forecasts—based upon the prospective acreages and average state acre yields—and their comparisons with production last year and the 10-year average, respectively:

Potatoes 281,000,000 bushels, 373,711,00 and 411,007,000.

Dry edible beans 18,700,000 bags of 100 pounds, 18,114,000 and 17,876,000.

Three-Fold Plan Reported to Help Easter Seal Fund Drive

A three-fold plan to raise funds during the 1954 Easter seal drive is announced by Stuart H. Taylor, Twin Falls, Crippled Children's Society of Idaho vice president and county trustee.

The drive opened Monday and ends Sunday. Twenty-five per cent of all contributions collected within the county will remain in the county to be used in rehabilitating crippled children. No goal has been set for the month-long drive, Taylor said.

Mailing of more than 9,700 letters to county residents kicked off the campaign. A sheet of 100 Easter seals was included in each letter along with a stamped, addressed envelope for mailing contributions.

State goal for the drive is $50,000. About $40,000 was collected last year. Only Ada county surpassed Twin Falls county in total collections last year, according to Taylor.

In addition to the Easter seals, Twin Falls high school girls will sell paper Easter lilies in the business district the Saturday prior to Palm Sunday. Easter seal coin containers also will be distributed to local business firms and theaters to supplement fund raising efforts.

John Daly, Twin Falls, is chairman of the countywide drive. Easter seals and letters were mailed by members of the Twin Falls Cerebral Palsy council.

Last year, Easter seal contributions helped 128 crippled children and three crippled adults from nearly every Idaho county, Taylor revealed.

The society is a voluntary, non-profit, statewide organization that cooperates with but does not duplicate the crippled children's program of the Elks, the Shr.. .. ..tion or the publi.. .. ..ent, Taylor notes.

"STOOGES, STOOGES!"

The master strategy of those backing the initiative to put Idaho in the power and communications business has blown up with a sickening piff.

The grandiose scheme to get Rep. Harold A. Patten, Democrat of Arizona, to flood Idaho with 170,000 pieces of public power propaganda, because he was not seeking reelection and "had nothing to lose"—a scheme which Rep. Gracie Pfost of Idaho "knew nothing about"—has turned out to be a floperoo.

It might have worked out, phony as it was, if Congressman Patten had not refused to be the fall guy, particularly after he discovered he had been caught in what he described as Gracie's "mousetrap."

She had told him originally, he said, that what the backers of the public power initiative were proposing in Idaho was similar to the set-up in Arizona. He took her at her word only to find out later that the plan for Idaho was nothing at all like Arizona's, and in effect was hooked up with the overall objective of having the federal government develop Hells canyon dam. In fact, it comes out now that money which certain individuals donated to further the Hells canyon cause was actually used to help defray expenses of the public power initiative movement.

After he had had his fill of all such goings on, Congressman Patten removed his blindfold and pinned the tail right where it belonged on the donkey.

Not only did he admit being "mouse-trapped" by Mrs. Pfost, but he announced that the controversial mailing material, scheduled to be sent throughout Idaho under his free mailing franking privilege, would be recalled and destroyed.

Then he went on to explain in detail as follows:

"On Feb. 25, I entered into the Congressional Record some material presented to me by my Democratic colleague from Idaho, Representative Pfost, having been prepared by her, which I believed to be correct.

"After going into the matter I found no comparison between the Idaho initiative and the operation of the Arizona power authority. Since interested persons in Idaho had paid for reprints 'not at government expense' to be mailed under my frank, I ordered these to be returned to my office and destroyed.

"I would not attempt to enter into a private political battle in another state, but had believed this initiative measure to be non-partisan. Much confusion has arisen because of the erroneous statement that 170,000 had been mailed. For this confusion and for being mouse-trapped into a situation that was none of my business I have deep regret."

All this is particularly significant when it is kept in mind that Mrs. Pfost was denying all along that she had anything to do with this master scheme which went haywire.

"The truth is, as Mrs. Pfost has known from its inception," said Rep. Hamer Budge of Idaho, "that she personally engineered the whole operation. She gave the materials to Patten, her office handled the checks to pay for it, in spite of her vigorous denials that she had nothing to do with it."

When Congressman Patten made his statement, Mrs. Pfost at first refused any comment. Then she did just what would be expected.

Instead of answering Sen. Herman Welker's question: "Did you tell the truth when you said you had no knowledge of the transaction?" Mrs. Pfost resorted to what the senator described as "an old worn-out record used by people caught in embarrassing positions."

She tried to fluff it all off by calling Senator Welker and Representative Budge "stooges" of the Idaho Power company, going to considerable length with her usual double talk about power rates, "the people," etc.

"As I said before," she countered in trying to get the monkey off her back, "the initiative movement indicates to me that the Idaho citizens are awakening to the fact that our present power rates prohibit industrial expansion in our state."

A lot of Idaho people who have had the wool pulled over their eyes up to now with all this public power propaganda, no doubt have had another "awakening" this last week or so, and it hasn't done the initiative movement or Hells canyon any good.

WATER POLLUTION

It is encouraging to note that local plans are being made for participation in National Wildlife week, March 21-27.

The underlying purpose of this national observance is to focus public attention on problems of natural resource management and the pressing need for better conservation practices.

The special theme for 1954 will be water polution control, and those sponsoring the campaign locally will endeavor to point out the work that is necessary along these lines in our own vicinity.

It can be said in all truthfulness that water pollution control is one of America's most pressing natural resource problems, and it is high time we were doing something about it.

TUCKER'S NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

Every Sunday this veteran Washington newspaper correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' letters of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker, 6306 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why must we include Russia in a peace treaty with Austria or Germany?" inquires K. S. S., Mount Vernon, O. "We concluded a peace treaty with Japan without the reds' participation and we have a peace treaty of sorts with West Germany.

Ray Tucker

"If the Russians will not cooperate, why not leave them out? After the treaties with these countries are made, we could demand withdrawal of the communist forces at the same time that ours are withdrawn."

Answer: The simplest explanation is that, as in law, possession is sometimes nine points of diplomacy. Neither the Austrians nor the Germans want us to leave their countries, for then they would be exposed to the cruel mercies of Moscow. Both the Bonn and Vienna statesmen, as they informed Secretary Dulles, hope that the Russians, finding continued occupation unprofitable, will get out some happy day.

AN IMPOSSIBLE SUGGESTION—We cannot, of course, pursue the pleasant but impossible program which K. S. S. suggests. Without war, we cannot force the Russians out. We do not want to make a final and conclusive peace with a severed Austria or Germany, although we have stabilized relations with the Adenauer government.

With the imprisoned people, we can only wait and hope and pray. We can also encourage them to resistance and noncooperation, without going so far as to provoke a bloody and useless uprising.

We are doing just what the Republicans criticized Dean Acheson for doing with respect to communist-conquered China. If you remember, Truman's secretary of state said that we would wait "until the dust settled." It settled, but the dust was red.

However, to be fair to both the Eisenhower and Truman administrations, no positive or curative action is possible without war, which the American people would not tolerate in such a cause.

"It is true," asks W. T., Altoona, Pa., with some indignation, "that the United States has made preparations for waging germ warfare? I thought that had been outlawed by international agreement."

Answer: Germ warfare has not been outlawed, and we are preparing for the possibility of germ warfare. We have a tremendous experimental laboratory and at least three manufacturing plants near Frederick, Md., about 40 miles from my home just outside Washington. We are also producing anti-germ stuff.

CAMOUFLAGED APPROPRIATIONS — Although the precise amount allocated for this work is not set forth in the army appropriation bills, my study of the amounts given the chemical warfare service during and since World war II lead me to believe that we have spent several billions on this project. Appropriations for developing the A-bomb were similarly camouflaged when we started on the Manhattan project.

I can understand the puzzled reaction to this development, but it is done merely for self-protection. We would never use it unless the enemy did. But who can trust the Russians, who are even less chivalrous than Hitler? When we conquered Germany, we found that der fuehrer had built a store of many murderous gases, although that form of warfare has been formally outlawed, if I remember rightly.

INFORMATION COULD BE SOUGHT—Incidentally, W. T. might question Rep. James E. Van Zandt on this subject. A resident of Altoona, "Jimmie" is a member of the armed services committee and the joint committee on atomic energy. He could not spill any classified or confidential stuff, but he could give a general idea of our germ warfare preparations, if he would.

"Will you please tell me why," writes Mrs. M. R. R., Peekskill, N. Y., "President Eisenhower recalled Chester Bowles as ambassador to India? Many prominent people who should know say he should have been retained because he was doing an excellent job."

Answer: Former Ambassador Bowles should have been retained, in my opinion. In view of our current difficulties with Prime Minister Nehru over arming Pakistan, the Connecticut politician might have been extremely helpful. "Ike" has removed too many good diplomats serving abroad. But politics is politics, and Bowles was a Truman extremist.

VIEWS OF OTHERS

THE PUSH-BUTTON'S CHILD

The newly released army photographs showing a Nike guided rocket destroying a B-17 drone target plane bring home, in a way that all which has been written about the Nike could hardly do, the extent of which the age of the "new weapon" is in fact overtaking us. Here is a concrete example of "push-button" warfare in which a good deal more than just the "push-button" has obviously been developed.

The Nike is a mindless cylinder of metal full of electronic tubes and high explosives; a push-button sends it off and maneuvers it, at a speed of perhaps 1500 miles an hour, into the vicinity of an approaching bomber; its own "senses" then take over and bring it home against the aircraft despite every evasive action of which a manned plane is capable. The first battery of launching racks for these formidable weapons is being installed between Baltimore and Washington, for the defense of both areas; another is believed to be under construction at Sandy Hook for the defense of New York, and others will be established throughout the strategic areas of the country as funds and rockets become available.

The Nike is a considerably more effective replacement for the 120 mm. anti-aircraft gun batteries that now ring our more important strategic sites, as a final defense against anything which might penetrate the interceptor airplane screens. It is not perfect, by any means. It is presumably subject to enemy jamming and to the other failures to which electronic equipment is always liable; nevertheless, it still presents a air-borne atomic attack. Nor can one doubt that similar hazards are being erected on the other side of the iron curtain to an attack by our own strategic air command. The balance is not clear, and possibly never will be unless a third world war brings the grim test of practice. The machine inordinately complicates war; but it makes the outcome less rather than more predictable, while every indication so far suggests that it is more likely to maximize than to minimize the blood and agony which a war must exact. Since the world is filling up with these deadly things, one must be glad that we have Nike. One must still hope, above all, that we shall not have another war.—New York Herald Tribune.

'JUST A LITTLE RUSTY'

If business leadership generally in this country takes as constructive a stand on the economic outlook as Benjamin F. Fairless, chairman of the board of United States Steel corporation, we don't see how there can be any serious recession.

Speaking before the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce recently, Mr. Fairless noted that the consensus of outstanding economists who studied the situation was that business in 1954 would fall off somewhat, to the point where it would only be the second or third most prosperous year we have ever known. The prospect of "struggling through" such a year, said Mr. Fairless, "is not exactly what I would regard as a fate worse than death."

He then emphasized the responsibility of business leadership to continue to follow a policy that will assure America's future prosperity. It is not, he said, a job that government can do, although government does have the responsibility of maintaining the right kind of economic atmosphere. Once government has done that, "the future of business and industry in this country will be exactly what we, ourselves, have made it."

We applaud Mr. Fairless' stand and hope other leaders of American business and industry have the same viewpoint. We particularly commend Mr. Fairless' challenge to businessmen that they do as good a job on salesmanship, which he said is "just a little rusty nowadays," as they do on research and production.—Salt Lake Tribune.

IT SAVES FILM

Dear Pots:

A few weeks ago, a T-N photographer showed up at a certain public event, snapped a couple of pictures and left.

Inasmuch as yours truly was smack dab in the center of the space where the camera was pointed, I kept watching for the picture. But I watched in vain. It never did appear.

So after awhile curiosity got the better of me. I phoned the T-N, inquired about this one certain picture and allowed as how I'd like to have some copies of it. That's when I got a shock. The man said the picture turned out to be a double exposure.

And here all the time I thought those staff photographers were experts! That double exposure stuff is what I pull all the time with my Brownie!

Dear Potter:

I heard of a good thing concerning fishing just Thursday. Then Friday I hear other people have heard about it, too.

They tell me the bass fishing has been so good over by the Strike reservoir that you can't keep 'em off the hook. Now I hear the fishing is so good the state is putting an end to it. Is that so?

GENTLEMAN IN THE FOURTH ROW

HOW THINGS APPEAR FROM PEGLER'S ANGLE

WASHINGTON—The Aluminum Company of America is an old conservative monument to Andrew Mellon, a Republican typical of the Coolidge-Hoover administration. The Aluminum company is the financial "angel" or sponsor of the broadcasts of Edward R. Murrow, official and household political pundit of the Columbia Broadcasting system. Currently Murrow has been in a fight with Sen. Joe McCarthy on issues of veracity.

Westbrook Pegler

There is a blind preference to Murrow in a congressional publication, entitled "hearings before the subcommittee to investigate the administration of the internal security act."

Pat McCarran, Nevada, Democrat and red-baiter, was chairman of the judiciary committee and of the subcommittee which held these hearings.

One entry in this volume is a letter written in March, 1936, by Frederick Vanderbilt Field, whose political notoriety in the investigations of communism need not be recanvassed here.

One paragraph said: "I feel very self-conscious about (Professor James T.) Shotwell because of having gone to some considerable trouble to organize a stop-Shotwell movement among the younger people in New York six or seven years ago. The movement was so successful that I have often wondered whether we were justified in taking such an unfriendly attitude toward him in our IPR work."

"IPR" refers to the Institute of Pacific Relations, which became a hotbed of communist conspiracy.

"At his request," the letter continued, "Barnes and I got together a group of about 18 or 20 people who met at Shotwell's house and ate his food one evening a week for about four months in order to engage in an open discussion of the original motivations of international relations."

The Barnes mentioned here is Joe Barnes, for a long time "foreign editor" of the New York Herald Tribune. He was a close associate, professionally and socially, of Mrs. Helen Reid, the actual publisher of this Quondam Republican paper. Mrs. Reid is a girl from the other side of the track who became secretary to the rich New York and London society queen who was surviving head of the Reid family.

Helen married Mrs. Reid's son, Ogden, the heir to the hoorah. Ogden was a friendly fellow with a habit of slumming with the editorial staff. He had more ability than most of his rapscallion speakeasy friends gave him credit for. When he died, the H-T lost more than just an amiable go-between of a rich management with a supercilious Anglican mother-country editorial tradition and the tosspot mock-intellectuals of the Newspaper guild in the speakeasy across the street. The H-T lost a good deal of its brain-power, too.

Barnes has been "named" by numerous witnesses under oath as a communist but has denied all such charges. He spent a good deal of time in Soviet Russia and handled Wendell Willkie's affairs on his fantastic pilgrimage to Stalin's stronghold after Willkie had served as a Trojan horse nominee of the Republican party in 1940. Barnes and Field were intimate friends for years and Barnes married his pal's wife after the Fields were divorced.

Continuing, Field's letter said: "Barnes and I carefully stacked the cards so that out of a meeting of 20 there were 19 Marxists or pseudo-Marxists and one violent anti-Marxist, Shotwell, himself. Each meeting was more embarrassing than the last for, all being young, we were rather unmerciful in tearing to pieces every clause issued by this renowned scholar."

Advised that Edward R. Murrow had been one of this group, I telephoned Professor Shotwell at his home in New York. He said yes, that Murrow had been a member of the circle but that Murrow was strongly anti-Marxist. Further than that he refused to be quoted except that devotion to communism and Marxism, as of then and as of now, was not the same.

In those days it was not plain that the Soviet state was the mortal enemy of the United States, although the very purpose of these ideological jam-sessions was to examine the inward meanings. Shotwell himself claims that he demolished the reds on all counts. He emphasized the point that all these ideologians were "young"—to excuse any Marxists of whatever degree. I replied in effect that I too, had been young but never had thought of giving aid and comfort to an enemy of my country.

Dr. J. B. Matthews, the veteran red-baiter and former fellow-traveler, told me he had known Murrow, about the time referred to by Field. He also knew Field and Barnes.

Dr. Matthews never calls a man or woman a communist who was merely a fellow-traveler. He never calls a socialist a communist although some theoreticians argue that the one is but the egg from which the other hatches. Dr. Matthews said he did not regard Murrow as a communist but did regard him as a socialist at that time.

Murrow has stated that McCarthy was wrong in charging that he was a member of the "national advisory council" of a seminar of American study-boys and professors to Soviet Russia under the auspices of the University of Moscow in 1935. Murrow said this seminar was called off.

However, he was named on the American "advisory committee" of the "first Russian seminar" in 1933, and his answer to McCarthy did not claim that "seminar" was called off.

The "seminar aims" for 1933, set forth in a pamphlet obtained by Senator McCarthy, who sent it to me, include the following language, taken out of context but without distortion or misrepresentation.

"Leaders, chosen for the most part from the advisory committee will accompany the seminar and supplement the general sightseeing program with special lectures, talks and informal discussions.

"Interviews with and talks by leaders of Soviet culture and officialdom will form a prominent part of the seminar program." The last sentence says "propaganda pro and con, of all kinds, will be avoided as inimical to the interests of the seminar and repugnant to the intelligent traveler."

Dr. Matthews impressed on me the fact that the University of Moscow is an official agency of the Soviet government. And he has always insisted that all communists and all their agencies are always making propaganda, however repugnant it may be to whomsoever.

Call of Birds Gone From Many Islands

Island-loving birds always hover near the brink of extinction. For them, there is no hinterland, no place to retreat while they make adaptions or changes in their fixed pattern of life. One small mistake, and poof! a species is gone.

Eugene Burns

This constant threat is verified all too painfully when one scans the list of birds which have joined the spectral host of extinct species. With rare exceptions, almost all were island dwellers.

The Pacific is a graveyard of such extinct island birds. Man and his faithful attendants—cats, rats, rabbits, goats, mongooses and introduced birds with their combined diseases—have swept island after island bare.

No one knows for sure exactly how many species have gone under—but the number is over 100, perhaps perhaps closer to 200! And still, this process is going on with frightening rapidity.

Take Lord Howe island, east of Australia. During World war I, a ship was wrecked off the coast and some rats swam to shore. What happened to this island paradise which rang with the joyous call of birds? Within two years, the notes of songbirds became scarce. Within three, the rats had reduced the entire bird population, with the exception of strong-billed magpies and kingfishers, so that even the hasty flight of a lone bird through the lush tropic growth disappeared. A singing paradise of melody reduced to a wilderness with the quietness of death hanging over it.

Or Laysan, an island at the western end of the far-flung Hawaiian archipelago. There a well-meaning sea captain planted some rabbits as a source of food supply for shipwrecked sailors. But see what happened. Without predators, the rabbits, as rabbits will, multiplied fearfully. When the vegetation was gone, they ate the young birds and then became cannibalistic. Bailey also points out about 20,000 German brown trout will soon be placed in Snake river between Miller dam and Minidoka.

He said he is always around the hatchery and especially welcomes visitors to come down this week. He will be on hand to show them around and point out the various phases of the operation, Bailey said.

The hatchery can be reached by turning right off Blue Lakes boulevard south at the Highland avenue intersection.

At the Jerome state bird farm visitors will be welcome and personnel will be available to act as guides around the farm, according to William Gnemi, superintendent.

He said recently they have no young birds left but have about 2,000 pheasants in the breeding flock which may be viewed by visitors.

In addition there are also a number of what Gnemi terms "ornamental" birds at the farm. They include the striking golden pheasants, silver and amherst birds. The amhersts are blue and white in color.

Although area residents are urged to visit the state installations during the coming week, Gnemi noted that last Sunday was the busiest day of the year so far as visitors were concerned.

In addition to the usual farm activities, Gnemi said he is busy this time of year releasing birds. He said he was scheduled to plant about 1,700 pheasants this past week.

The farm is located one mile south of Jerome. The turnoff is marked by a sign located on the eastern outskirts of the city.

By taking a little more time, the wildlife enthusiast can take a conducted tour of the large state hatchery at Hagerman. It can be reached by going north on highway 25 and turning left on the Wendell-Hagerman road then turning left again at the first road past Billingsley creek.

Another route is through Hagerman valley on highway 30 to the Wendell-Hagerman road intersection. Turning east there, the motorist should go to the first right turn then drive about three-fourths of a mile south.

An added attraction at Hagerman is the wildlife refuge surounding the hatchery. Canadian geese, various species of ducks and pheasants can be seen.

Main portions of the hatchery include 10 earthen raceways 550 feet long and about five feet wide, four ponds 50 feet wide and 500 feet long, 28 smaller tanks for hatching purposes and other smaller raceways.

Spring water is pumped through all of the ponds and raceways constantly.

All of the places are jammed with fish. As Elwood Grimes, hatchery superintendent puts it, "We have fish running out of our ears."

In addition to the regular fish, Grimes said they have a number of large trout of different species for "show" purposes.

Almost a million fish from the hatchery were planted in Idaho streams and lakes last year, Grimes noted.

He pointed out that large numbers of the fish will be planted in May, including about 20,000 German brown trout in Snake river between Shoshone falls and Clear lakes.

Grimes said he has men available to show visitors around and welcomes the opportunity to show off the hatchery. He said, "We have a lot of people visiting on nice days but we would like to have more so they will know what we have here."

William Gnemi, superintendent of the state fish and game department bird farm near Jerome, holds one of the rooster pheasants grown on the farm. Visitors to the farm during National Wildlife week will have a chance to see part of the 2,000 birds kept there as breed stock as well as some "ornamental" pheasants. (Staff photo-engraving)

Large Crowd Attends Meet Of Creamery

he Dairymen's association, told the members of the creamery that dairymen must no longer depend on government for support but should depend on themselves.

Roy D. Smith, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the creamery, told members that business had increased by 15 per cent over last year. He said everything showed an increase except dry milk ... which dropped 4.3 per cent.

In listing the increases, Smith said butter had gone up 20.4 per cent, cheese 28.4 per cent, edible dry milk 35.2 per cent, cottage cheese 9.7 per cent, ice cream 18.1 per cent and ice cream confections ... per cent.

Total receipts increased 20.3 per cent while grade A receipts increased 22.5 per cent, he said.

The production increase is considerably greater than the potentially limited market not only locally but nationally, Smith said.

The financial statement of the cooperative was presented by William G. Stacey, Portland CPA. A. H. Jagels, Buhl, president, presided at the meeting.

Lester Evans, Los Angeles, general manager of Challenge creameries, also spoke at the meeting.

Evans said Challenge represents a capital investment of $4,500,000, of which 10 per cent is in the Jerome Cooperative Creamery.

He urged an advertising campaign to acquaint the public with dairy products.

Kenneth King, Wendell, was reelected director from the Wendell district and Jack Edwards, Dietrich, was reelected director from the Lincoln county area.

The high school band played during the noon recess and a quartet composed of Dr. L. V. Ruebel, Robert Vernon, Fred Burkhalter and W. P. Kercher, sang.

The meetings, both morning and afternoon sessions, were held at the senior high school.

Disclosure of Plans Closing "Frank" Row

Idaho scheme was entirely different from the Arizona plan. He said he had found the material given him by Mrs. Pfost to be inserted in the Congressional Record "has found to be not factual." He also said he had ordered the 180,000 reprints returned to his office and destroyed, but "some have been mailed by another office."

Virginia Rishel, Mrs. Pfost's secretary, said, "None has been franked out of this office," but did not say whether the letters had been mailed with postage affixed.

Following Representative Patten's statement, in which he attributed the whole scheme to Mrs. Pfost, Representative Budge and Senator Welker praised him for "an honest statement." They said he was "entitled to an apology from the state of Idaho for the way he has been misused."

Early in the controversy, Mrs. Pfost insisted "the people" of Idaho were behind the plan to distribute the material favorable to the power and communications initiative. Approval of the plan would give the state authority to take over any and all power and communications or "natural resources."

The plan was spawned by the Idaho Citizens Legislative Committee, Inc. During the height of the row, two original incorporators from Magic Valley resigned. One of those remaining is J. G. Bowers, Nampa, Mrs. Pfost's brother.

One of the articles inserted in the Congressional Record is a reprint of a story appearing in the Times-News Jan. 15. It was a story from Wilson giving his views on the initiative measure after an earlier story from the State Chamber of Commerce had branded the plan as "the worst type of socialism."

New Trustee for Estate Is Asked For Serviceman

District court is asked to approve the appointment of a new trustee for the estate and trust fund left by Mrs. Fern L. Pierce, in a petition filed in district court Friday by Richard Lee Paulson, now serving with the U. S. armed forces in Germany.

Paulson asks the court to approve his aunt, Mrs. Beulah Standlee, as trustee. Ed Brennen, his uncle and former trustee of the fund, died in November, 1953, and no administrator of his estate has been appointed.

Paulson states there is $3,581.21 in the trust account now. He further claims he is to receive the remaining fund and the estate when he becomes 25 years old in 1956, according to the terms of the Pierce will.

Hearing on the petition in district court has been set for April 2.

Sentence Withheld

JEROME, March 20—Sentence for Eugene Whitworth, Bancroft, who pleaded guilty earlier this month to a charge of writing a check with no funds in the bank, was withheld by District Judge Hugh A. Baker for two years Saturday.

During the two-year period Whitworth has been paroled to the board of corrections.

Fire Damages 4-H Structure

BURLEY, March 20 — Damage amounting to "several thousand dollars" resulted to the 4-H club barn at the Cassia county fairgrounds Friday afternoon.

Fire Chief Otis Williams said the fire apparently was started by children. He said some fairgrounds equipment was stored in the building and estimated damage would run into several thousands of dollars.

The building was wooden frame structure with a dirt floor. The fire also blistered the paint on the caretaker's home.

The British aircraft industry employs about 224,000 people.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mrs. Al Ivy, BELLEVUE, stopped off in GOODING this week on her way to Weiser and asked a few pointed questions.

Mrs. Ivy lived in Gooding before Gooding came into existence and now she's wondering if very many people recall the old Frank Gooding ranch. Her husband was an irrigator for former Governor Gooding and the land he irrigated now is the site of the city of Gooding.

The early pioneer said she lived in a tent with a hard-pan floor in the early days and trapped coyotes and bobcats in her spare time, collecting the $1.50 bounty on each. She learned trapping from her father in Utah.

Ivy was one of the first freighters to haul lumber to TWIN FALLS from SHOSHONE. Mrs. Ivy accompanied him on many of his trips, crossing the Snake river at the Blue Lakes grade on the ... T in Falls and returning ... Shoshone falls ferry.

The hook was used by Mrs. Vreeland's mother until she was in her 80's and then Mrs. Vreeland began using it.

HANSEN isn't a very large community but it is well know to some people in faraway Greece. But even though "Hansen, Idaho" was stamped on some bags of beans sent to Greece, these people probably wouldn't have noticed it except for the kindnesses of some residents of Hansen.

Hansen became known to the residents of Katerini, Greece, through the efforts of Fred Howard. By means of his shortwave radio he happened to contact the brother of Efthalia Christodoulou and learned something of the near starvation conditions of some of the Greek people.

Howard, who also is a mail carrier, told several people about his discoveries and he and his wife, Mrs. Frank Wright, assistant postmistress; Lena Bohrn, postmistress, and Mrs. Ralph Simmons, substitute mail carrier, decided to "adopt" the Christodoulou family.

The Grecian family consists of the elderly father and mother, the brother and two sisters. The brother was disabled during the war and receives a pension amounting to about $7.50 a month. To get it, though, he has to walk miles to another town. It is inadequate because there have been many operations and doctors to pay for, both for himself and his parents.

Even though poor, the family has shown its appreciation by sending back lovely hand-embroidered gifts. Miss Bohrn, Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Howard have received hand woven bedspreads so beautifully finished they are reversible. All have received hand embroidered linens in beautiful colors.

Miss Christodoulou wrote she is trying to get a "marriage portion" together. Because of a shortage of men, girls who do not have adequate portions stand little chance of marriage, she said.

So Miss Bohrn is sending her things suitable "to marry her off."

The brother cannot choose a wife until his sisters are married, and until his parents are adequately cared for. The sisters, if married, would care for the parents so the brother, too, could get married.

All of Miss Christodoulou's letters express appreciation. When a pound of coffee was sent them she said she saved all of it for her father. She wrote once of having beans for breakfast because they couldn't wait to eat them later.

In her last letter she told of some of the Grecian holiday customs. Every family in the village slaughters a pig at Christmas and uses the blood to dye the horns of all other domestic animals. This is done in the belief it will keep the other animals from harm during the coming year.

Like all nationalities, Greeks evidently love their pets and pamper them. When Miss Christodoulou learned that Miss Bohrn has a Siamese cat she sent a woven pillow top for the cat to sleep on. Miss Bohrn says that even though she is fond of her cat, she can sleep just as well on something much less fine!

300 Residents Added to City's Mail Routes in Postal Change

Previously there were 12½ city routes and three rural routes from the Twin Falls office, he said. Now there are 12 city routes and three rural routes even though 300 more patrons have been added to the city routes. The changes ... into effect on Monday.

Beginning next Monday rural carriers will report for work 30 minutes later than usual ... that all deliveries will be 30 minutes later on the rural routes, the postmaster explained.

Patrons are urged to place numbers on their homes to expedite the delivery of mail, especially when substitute mail carriers ... the place of regular carriers.

Frantz also explained that because of the changeover some patrons have been receiving their mail off schedule. As soon as all adjustments in the changeover have been completed schedules will be resumed, he said. "Shots" Given

SHOSHONE, March 20—Immune globulin was given to 264 school children at Richfield Wednesday to forestall a threatened epidemic of yellow jaundice. Several cases of the disease have been reported there recently.

The globulin was administered by Dr. R. G. Neher, Shoshone, assisted by Mrs. Sidney Knight, Twin Falls, and Ervin Peterson, Boise, both of the state department of public health and Mrs. Jack Keith, Shoshone, public health nurse.

Hatchery Output Sets New Record

BOISE, March 20 (U.P.)—Idaho hatchery production last month set a new February record of 780,000,000 chicks, the U. S. department of agriculture reported today.

The department said 1953 production totalled 4,477,000 chicks, an increase of 21,000 over the previous year. It said production started strong, but declined sharply after March. The worst month was May.

Production last month was 19 per cent above February, 1953.

Termination for Estate Is Asked

A petition to terminate the life estate in some local property held by Mrs. Margaretha Sommer, who died in Los Angeles, Calif., June 25, 1949, was filed in probate court Friday by her son, John G. Sommer, Twin Falls.

According to the petition Sommer and three daughters were to share the estate upon the death of Mrs. Sommer.

The other heirs are Mrs. Marie Halliburton, Saugus, Calif.; Mrs. Rose M. Allen, San Diego, Calif., and Mrs. Elene Crow, Long Beach, Calif.

The estate consists of 30 acres of land about two miles south of Twin Falls and 70 acres about ... mile east of Filer.

Since Mrs. Sommer's death ended her estate in the property, the petitioner asks the court to formally terminate her interest.

[illegible]e Man Flays Cavanagh, [illegible]per for Road Board Stand

[illegible]s-News:

[illegible]-News took occasion to [illegible] Cavanagh's defense of [illegible] commission this week [illegible]ual stock answer that [illegible] "selfish and political," [illegible] hardly dry before it [illegible] necessary to correct [illegible] facts. He also incor[illegible] the present commission [illegible]uilding the road north [illegible]n-to-rim bridge a [illegible]on- [illegible] you, which [illegible] office.

[illegible], this road is shorter [illegible] and handy for fisher[illegible] cannot use it generally [illegible]els 88 per cent of the [illegible]g over the bridge to [illegible] and one-half miles [illegible] the shorter route that [illegible]at the time.

[illegible] the deplorable condi[illegible]ho's roads when the [illegible] was created and the [illegible]or building roads on a [illegible] basis determined by [illegible] and need, the com[illegible] now flatly refuses [illegible] particular road. They [illegible]edit for this road . . . [illegible]h ought to get these [illegible] before he bursts forth [illegible] and overseer of the [illegible]ssion.

[illegible] this three-man board [illegible]: They could make [illegible] know, because it is [illegible]. But it is evident that [illegible]w wrong the board [illegible] Times-News would [illegible] references as "po[illegible]." We refuse to fall [illegible] on our highway [illegible]

[illegible]lliam Detweiler, who [illegible] for creation of the [illegible] the legislature, said [illegible]ay night, "The high[illegible] experiment and we [illegible]re going to be 'bugs' [illegible]ld have to be ironed [illegible] passed the bill." The [illegible]owing up now, but [illegible], no one should say [illegible]t them?

[illegible]ink the communities [illegible] side are against the [illegible] principle. It has done [illegible]rally but it does have [illegible]utocratic powers. The [illegible] communities have no [illegible] when dealing with the commission. The highway [illegible] ment has maps and surveys in its files for a new U. S. 30 [illegible] across southern Idaho that would by-pass every city but Boise. Even [illegible] Jordan took issue with [illegible] gineers recently on such a [illegible] of state-wide policy. But [illegible] powerless before the board.

It seems to us that these communities should be consulted before such an extensive and costly survey is undertaken. We are not trying to tell the commission where to build the roads in Twin Falls county, but we do feel that we should have some expression on the route planned in our own backyard. We are not [illegible] of reason in holding [illegible] right, either.

It is noted that Wyoming, Nevada and Montana, all of which are quite a bit ahead of Idaho in road building, guarantee this right as a matter of law to outlying [illegible] communities.

The Times-News certainly erred in saying the north side communities "poo-poohed" the importance of scenic attractions on the south side of the river. You have no proof for such a statement in connection with our efforts to properly designate the road on the north side as "U. S. 30 North." We asked this recognition because the road is 23 miles shorter in a 97-mile distance which ~~should certainly be a factor in a~~ highway title. We emphatically asked that U. S. 30 be retained for the longer route through your scenic attractions on the south side of the river.

Now you say we are not consistent because we won't accept the commission's route on the north side. The road which we want through our towns is actually shorter than the route proposed by the commission which lies some two to three miles south of all our communities and cuts up many times more valuable farm land. If you are sufficiently interested to learn more about this, we would be glad to prove this point. So we feel that we are entirely consistent now, just as we were consistent last fall in asking recognition for the shorter, faster route.

It is amusing to say the least that when the storm was raised in Twin Falls last fall over the efforts to designate Idaho 25 as U. S. 30 north, there was no mention of "pressure," selfishness," nor "politics." Your own delegations ran to Boise to fend off the attack and "enlighten" the commission.

When the people enter into a highway discussion, a right they should certainly have, do you classify it as "political pressure" if it arises on the north side and "statesmanship" if it originates on the south side of the river?

Regardless of your own interpretation, people and politics are synonymous. It is impossible to take a department of government out of politics. It matters not whether it concerns roads or taxes; so long as it concerns the public, politics will be found. It has been going on for years under our system of government and when we look at our great nation and state, we don't believe it's too bad a system at that.

Mr. and Mrs. Twin Falls, have you ever thought [illegible] visiting, [illegible] your city?

Did you know about 1,000 people came to visit you March 16 with not one sign of welcome, one word of gratitude for their visitation? Not to mention the several hundred dollars that ring the bell [illegible] cash registers.

Or is it we class [illegible] people are just too small [illegible]? This may sound like [illegible] son's idea but [illegible] feeling of many.

Oh, well, maybe we should apologize for the intrusion. [illegible] have [illegible] in the write-up [illegible]

Kimberly Man Favors Bypass Of Towns for Main Highways

Editor, Times-News:

Recently we have heard some complaints about our state highway commission concerning its attitude toward by-passing cities and villages of Idaho with our new highways. Most of this criticism has come from chambers of commerce of some of the municipalities involved.

~~One high elected official of the~~ state took a verbal blast at the commission, but we have to take it with a grain of salt because of his possible future political aspirations. (Incidentally, I voted mostly Republican at the last election and probably will again the next time.)

A statement was made that Idaho highways should be built for the people of our state. With this I wholeheartedly agree. However, we will find that tourists must and will use them regardless of for whom they are constructed. I believe the majority of the people, even of the communities involved, favor by-~~passing of their thoroughfares by the~~ fast cross-country highways, provided that there are satisfactory access roads or alternate routes to connect them with these highways.

A few years ago I was returning from the Midwest. As I was driving through Gothenburg, Nebr., a community in which I am acquainted with no one, but where they probably love their children even as we do ours, a small boy suddenly ran from behind a parked truck. Even though I was driving reasonably and skidded to a stop in a few feet, the boy was knocked to the pavement. Fortunately, he escaped with a mild abrasion on one leg.

If he had been killed or maimed, I would have been a long time trying to forget the horrible accident that occurred only because the highway took me through the middle of this town instead of by-passing it as it should.

The tourist trade should be welcomed by good highways free from the interference of the traffic of our city streets. The few dollars left behind by the tourist in these cities are worth far less than the life that may be taken by him. We don't like to be forced to go through other peoples' towns—let's not compel them to go through ours.

If it is the avowed policy of the Idaho highway commission to by-pass every city and village where reasonably possible with our main cross-country highways, I sincerely wish to congratulate its members on their stand.

New Chevrolet Trucks... do more work per day . . . more work per dollar!

You save extra trips. That's because of the extra load space you get in the new Advance-Design bodies. New pickup bodies are deeper . . . new stake and platform bodies are wider and longer. Also, they're set lower to make loading easier.

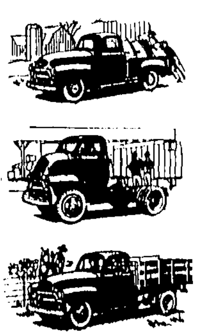

You save hours on the road. Thanks to new high-compression engine power, you can maintain faster schedules without driving at higher maximum road speeds. Increased acceleration and hill-climbing ability let you save time where it counts.

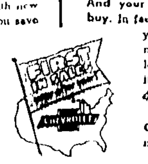

You save time on deliveries. With new truck Hydra-Matic transmission, you save valuable time at every delivery stop. And you can forget about clutching and shifting for good! It's optional at extra cost on ½-, ¾- and 1-ton Chevrolet trucks.

You save on operating costs. High-compression power saves you money every mile! The "Thriftmaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235" and the "Jobmaster 261" (optional on 2-ton models at extra cost) deliver increased operating economy.

You save with lower upkeep, too. Extra chassis strength saves you money on maintenance. For example, there are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models . . . bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models . . . stronger frames in all models.

And your savings start the day you buy. In fact, they start with the low price you pay—and continue over the miles. Chevrolet is America's lowest-priced line of trucks. And it's also the truck that has a traditionally higher trade-in value.

Dear Sirs:

Since we are so pleased with the G-E oil furance that you installed in our home at 1339 Oriental St., we thought it might be of interest to you to know of the saving it is making us.

Our furnace was put in action Sept. 19, 1952, and has performed faithfully ever since, and at such a saving compared to the electric heat we did have, which cost us $24.00 a month, and was raising to $55.00. We couldn't pay that much, so therefore inquired into your G-E furnace.

Your furnace gives us an even temperature of 70 to 73 degrees in our house, consisting of four rooms, bath, hall, and a back porch that is heated at times.

After four and one-half months of winter, our fuel cost was $12.22 a month, or 40c a day with a yearly average of $6.76 per month. So you can see we are saving almost $12.00 a month thru the winter months and more than that the other months of the year.

We certainly enjoy the furnace.

Yours truly,
MR. AND MRS. H. P. MOON

Friday Session Set to Discuss Planning For Air Breakfast Slated Here in May

A meeting of Magic Valley fliers and interested persons to plan an air breakfast in Twin Falls for sometime in May will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the city hall, reports Donald A. Duvall, Joslin field manager.

Purpose of the meeting is to prepare preliminary plans. Representatives are being invited from the Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants' bureau, various civic clubs and city and county commissioners.

Meeting with the group will be Chet Moulton, Boise, state aeronautical director, who will show movies of previous air breakfasts and assist in planning the event.

Between 500 and 600 aerial visitors are excpeted to fly in for the breakfast. It will be the first air breakfast held here since 1940.

Duvall reports it is important to have a large, representative turnout for the Friday meeting. Women as well as men are invited. Between 50 and 70 persons will be needed to help organize the aerial event, he notes.

The 1954 air breakfast season marks the ninth consecutive year of regularly scheduled "fly-in" breakfast outings, according to Duvall. During the eight years, 5,038 aircraft transported 15,015 persons to and from the air breakfasts for a total aggregate mileage of 1,641,900 plane miles.

The Golden Jubilee theme will be used in the local event.

Preliminary plans include awarding prizes for spot landings, air and ground courtesy and other such feats.

Anyone interested in the air breakfast is asked to attend, Duvall emphasizes.

Court Orders Property Sale

A decree of foreclosure on property was filed in district court Friday.

The decree, signed by Judge Hugh A. Baker, authorizes the sale of the property formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Houston Covington. Proceeds will pay a $2,468.80 judgment to the First Federal Saving and Loan association and a [illegible] to Joslin Jay Jones.

The decree was granted by Judge Baker after he heard a civil suit brought against the Covingtons by the loan association. C. A. Parrott and Anna S. Parrott were originally named as defendants in the action but the suit against them was dismissed.

Mrs. Jones also was one of the original defendants but filed a cross complaint against the Covingtons and the loan association.

The initial action resulted from alleged default of a promissory note secured by a mortgage.

In addition to the foreclosure decree, the decree bars any other claiming on the property.

Payments Sought In Two T. F. Suits

Payment of $150 on a stopped check and $420 in back rent are sought in two civil actions filed in probate court here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gerrish, operators of Gerrish's Sporting Goods store, ask the $150 judgment plus costs against Mrs. Leona Evans, Buhl.

They claim she gave them a check for that amount last Jan. 23 then later stopped payment. She has refused to make the check good, the plaintiffs charge.

Mae E. Perkins asks for the $420 plus costs in her action against James Sparks. She alleges he owes that amount for cabin rent from last October to this month.

Benoit and Benoit represent the plaintiffs in both actions.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Boys and girls, you who are in the high schools, learning and reciting your lessons will not be enough to train or teach you so that you become a personality, one who counts his full weight among his fellows. It takes knowledge and the use of knowledge to do that and a good deal of the knowing you will need is learned outside the books among active people.

It is not so much what you know as what you can do. Knowing that does not tie up with worthwhile activity is never going to take you very far. Witness the A-A pupil who is graduated and has nowhere to go save to the next school.

What you need to do, to add the spark to your knowledge and to your personality, is to get into a scheme of work that takes you into the life about you, allows you to rub minds and elbows—make sure of the elbows—with other people, old or young. Meet older people who have ability in some field with an open mind, ask questions, lend a hand if possible in their tasks, and, if it is not possible, make it so, for it is in this way that you become a power in yourself and among your classmates, and in your community.

It is important that you belong to a club because of the people you will be associated with and with whom you must learn to live. Life, the life you are soon to enter, is lived by people, the most interesting creations on earth.

You will meet the gracious kindly ones, the forbidding, grumpy and selfish ones, the generous and the mean, the givers and the takers, the skillful and the unskilled, the bright and the stupid, and you must, if you are to be the successful, attractive being you vision yourself, learn to take them as they come and make the best of each.

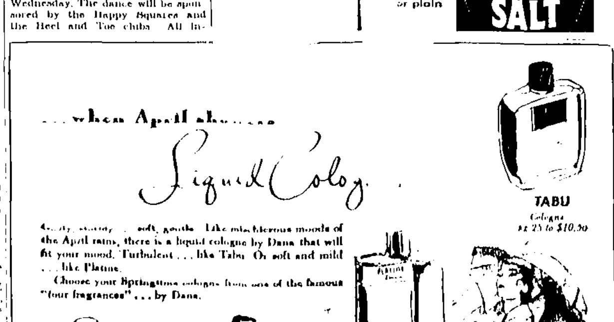

Learn, and this is a topmost gift to your personality if you can master it, to leave the door open behind you at every house or office you may enter. Learn to leave a pleasant memory of your face, your manners and your voice after every visit you may make.

Learn, that to get, you must give and that never, never, will you get anything worth while for nothing. Everything you will ever get will have to be earned the hard way, on your own power, and a very good thing, too.

So, today, take stock of yourself to see what you can do, how well you do it, and what progress you can make in your chosen activity, for it will not be just your report card that will count in days to come. It must be backed up by what you can do, what you have done. You must hitch your ability to think to your ability to act, and the time to begin is now.

Dear Friends:

I am very happy to announce the opening of my new MacLevy Slenderizing Department, the only one of its kind in the state of Idaho!

You Are Cordially Invited to Observe Its Unique Facilities Personally—OPEN HOUSE—This Afternoon (Sunday) from 2:00 P. M. to 6:00 P. M. Coffee and Cookies. If you cannot drop in this afternoon you are welcome any time later.

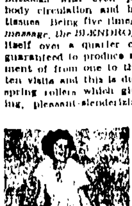

But above all, I want you to have a practical demonstration of the MacLevy routine which has been tried and tested by hundreds of thousands of women over a period of 56 years—so, without any expense or obligation to you whatsoever, I am going to give you ONE FREE TREATMENT (by appointment) so as to acquaint you with the equipment and explain to you what it will do by way of weight and measurement reduction.

The big Mac Levy Slendro Ring Roller

. . . Is TODAY'S MOST EFFICIENT MECHANICAL SPOT MASSAGER

for Both Men and Women. It has rolled off more superfluous weight and bulges from the human body than any other apparatus devised for this purpose. The smooth-rolling and kneading action of this spot reducer covers thigh, hips and buttocks with even pressure, increases body circulation and breaks down fatty tissues. Being five times faster than hand massage, the SLENDRO, which has proved itself over a quarter century of use, is guaranteed to produce a loss in measurement of from one to three inches within ten visits and this is done by the flexible spring rollers which give a smooth-rolling, pleasant-slenderizing massage.

The Rouler Massager

. . . Is Used in Conjunction with the Big Ring Roller. It can be used in many positions and it very effectively reaches all parts of the body. The sixteen hardwood rollers mounted in the rotating cylinder produces a mild and stimulating massage.

Hope You Can Drop In This Afternoon for a Quick Look and a Cup of Coffee!

Sincerely,

Jeannette

OPPOSITE ORPHEUM THEATRE

MADISON HIGH, REXBURG, CAPTURES CLASS A CAGE TOURN[EY]

Bobcats Batter Lewiston in 51-29 Game; Boise Braves Edge Bruins in Consolation

POCATELLO, March 20 (AP)—A suddenly inept Lewiston team took a 51-29 trouncing Saturday night as Madison, Rexburg, rolled to an impressive victory and the Idaho class A high school basketball title. The Bengals, which in previous tournament [illegible] in fine perfor[illegible] championship game at [illegible] their weight in Bobcats.

They held a 13-11 lead at the end of eight minutes. But Madison started a rousing rally in the second quarter and quickly broke the game wide open. The Bobcats scored 11 points while holding Lewiston to only five.

Madison, hearts set on its first state championship in 24 years, controlled the game through the second half. Lloyd Harris plunked in 22 points for high scoring laurels.

Harris also stole top point making honors for the tournament, hitting for 76 points in four games and a 19 point average.

In earlier games Saturday, Kellogg's superior height carried it into third place as the Wildcats clawed the Pocatello Indians 46-43. The loss put Pocatello in fifth place.

Boise captured the consolation crown by defeating Twin Falls 50-45. And South Fremont, St. Anthony, took fifth by trouncing Sandpoint 60 41.

Harris was the outstanding player on the floor in the Madison rout of Lewiston. The 6 foot 1 inch forward played his role of a Bengal lancer to the hilt, setting up a number of shots with clever ball handling and working well off both backboards.

The Rexburg squad threw up a stout defense around Lewiston's big center, 6-foot-7 inch Jim Branom, limiting him to only five points. The entire north Idaho team was able to score only 11 in the second half.

Bill Demott, Madison's gritty guard, lost two teeth with the game barely begun. He was back on the floor before the quarter ended, however, and played most of the balance of the game.

Lewiston's chances were given a stiff jolt when scrappy forward Doug Randall fouled out with a minute to go in the third period. He was followed off the floor by teammate Ed Campbell, who committed his fifth foul with 2:32 of the final frame gone.

Campbell was high for the Bengals with 10 tallies.

The Kellogg-Pocatello contest saw the Wildcats jump off to an early lead. They never were headed. In one time in the third quarter Kellogg held an 11-point margin at 37-26.

But the Indians came back fighting in the final quarter, gradually closing the gap. Time ran out before they could overcome Kellogg's bulge.

Harold Damiona was the game's high scorer with 18 points. Larry Walker of Pocatello scored 17.

Big Bob Drake was the difference as Boise trimmed Twin Falls 50-45 to take the tournament consolation crown.

The 6 foot 4 inch Boise center didn't start the game and Twin Falls led as the first quarter ended 10-5. The Bruins continued their fast pace in the second stanza and held a 25-17 margin at halftime.

Drake came off the bench halfway through the second quarter and apparently provided the spark to get the Braves rolling. He hit hook shots throughout the second half and ended as the game's high scorer with 19 points.

Drake received fine support from forward Ron Fitzgerald, who turned in a superior floor game and accounted for 12 points.

Gary Simmons potted 15 for the Bruins, mostly from outside. Bob Lydum, Twin Falls center, collected 12 counters.

In the day's first game, the South Fremont Cougars won fifth place in the tournament by trouncing Sandpoint 60-41.

Phil Bauer, big South Fremont center, swept the backboards consistently to give the Cougars a big edge on rebounds. He tossed in 15 points, trailing Max Romrell, South Fremont forward, who got 18.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By BOB COUGHLAN

High school basketballs bounced for the last time this season Saturday night and left raging in Magic Valley a controversy that will carry the rabid hoop fan throughout the hot summer months.

Which is the better team — Twin Falls or Jerome?

The answer, of course, depends on which side of Snake river you call home.

On the basis of the season's record, the teams should be rated even but neither Bruin supporters nor Tiger fans will ever agree to that.

The clubs have split in their six games this season, including two regular season games and four tourney battles.

Jerome supporters proudly point to the two straight victories over Twin Falls in the fourth district tournament which gave the Tigers the district crown.

"That's the one we wanted—we were up for that tourney," they declare.

Bruins fans, on the other hand, merely produce a box score of the class A state tourney in which Twin Falls eliminated the Tigers from further contention with a 49-33 victory.

"We came through when the chips were down and that's what counts," they assert.

To help the controversy along, we submit this little glimmer of information. In their six games, the Bruins have tallied 293 points to the Tigers' 262. Which, of course, proves nothing.

But regardless of which side you are on, there is one thing that must be acknowledged—the rivalry is one of the healthiest in high school circles.

Both clubs give with all they've got when they meet. And without an exception this season, the games have been the most cleanly-played of any in this area.

Unlike other schools, whose whole idea seems to be to win at any cost, both Twin Falls and Jerome players have conducted themselves like sportsmen on and off the floor.

Jerome coach Jerry Dellinger and Bruin coach Dan Falkins, we feel, should be commended for their players' actions.

And again, no matter which side you're on, the financial wizards at each school rub their hands like misers when the two clubs meet. Money in the pot, boy.

They played Cowboys and Indians at the Twin Falls gym Friday night and this time, contrary to all the rules, the Indians won.

Lapwai high school basketball team, seven members of which are Nez Perce Indians, won a thriller from the North Gem five. North Gem is known as the Cowboys.

Three cheerleaders from North Gem, clad in bright blue Cowgirl skirts, five-gallon hats and expertly twirling pistols, must have fired 10 rolls of caps each during the game.

It didn't scare the Indians from Lapwai, however. They put on a thrilling first-quarter exhibition of fast-break ball and then coasted to a 71-65 win over the Cowboys.

Lapwai was one of the most colorful teams seen here this year.

And that, with the exception of a reminder to catch the Harlem Globetrotters when they play here Tuesday, should wind up the basketball season until next November.

LaSalle Belts Bradley for Title

KANSAS CITY, March 20 (AP)—LaSalle's mighty Explorers burst the Bradley bubble Saturday night with a brilliant third quarter spurt that carried them to a record-shattering 92-76 triumph and the National Collegiate basketball championship before a screaming crowd of almost 10,500.

Bradley's Braves, who had parlayed borrowed luck into a winning streak that carried them almost all the way, faded before the magic zone defense and powerful scoring thrusts of the Explorers after the halftime.

Bradley had dominated the first 20 minutes and led by seven points early in the second quarter but its one-point halftime lead vanished as all-America Tom Gola with brilliant help from two fine sophomores, Charles Singley and Frank Blatcher, tore open the contest between the third and eighth minutes of the third quarter.

The 92-point total broke the previous high in a championship game by an even dozen points and equalled the all-time high for an NCAA contest, set last year by the University of Washington.

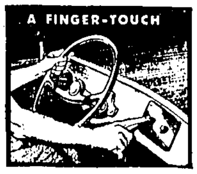

Kansas scored 80 points in beating St. Johns, Brooklyn, in the 1952 classic.

The total of 168 points also broke the all-time record, 165, in two different regional games a year ago.

Gola scored 19 points before he fouled out. His tipin with 4.28 left broke the previous 80-point game record.

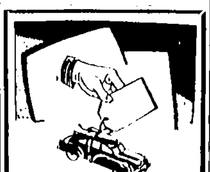

Blatcher was the game's high man from the floor, collecting 11 goals and a total of 23 points to share high honors with Singley.

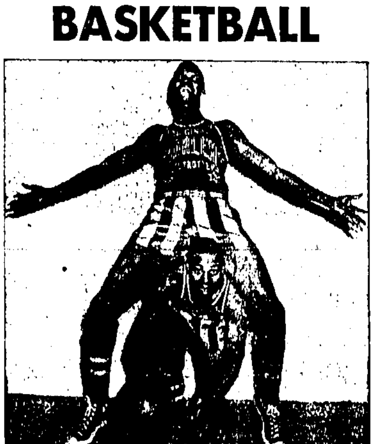

Penn State won third place by defeating Southern California 70-61.

Blue Wave Defe[ats] Lapwai Team in Ding-Dong Fray

North Marsh won the class B [b]asketball c[hampionship] here Saturday night by defeating [the] Lapwai Wil[dcats] [illegible]

North Gem took third place in [the c]lass B tou[rney] [win]ning a 52-44 defeat on the [Wilder W]ildcats. [illegible]

five, one of the most colorful teams to appear in a tourney here, brought the crowd to its feet with a fourth quarter rally that pulled them to within one point of the leading North Marsh team with 37 seconds left to play.

Brent Hall put the game and the championship into the North Marsh possession when, with 25 seconds remaining, he stole the ball and drove in for a layup.

Hall was fouled by the fighting Lapwai team with 10 seconds remaining and calmly sank both his shots to stretch the margin to [illegible] as time ran out.

The game was a thriller from the opening whistle with the Blue Wave from North Marsh drawing first scoring blood at 7:35 of the opening frame when John Bishoff twisted in for a layup.

The Blue Wave kept the pressure on during the first quarter and never let the Lapwai five, a fast-breaking team, go into its act.

Lapwai played without the services of Eddie Madsen, who was injured in Friday night's game with North Gem. Madsen has been described as the fastest basketball player in north and central Idaho.

North Marsh led at the end of the first period by an 18-14 margin.

In the second period, the Wildcats from Lapwai began to find the range and with Bob Sabotta, Marcus Wilson and Jerry Sabotta hitting from all angles, took a slim 32-31 lead at the half.

Delmar Cammack, the North Marsh speedster, hit for three quickies at the start of the third period and the Blue Wave began to pile up the score.

Going into the final period of play, North Marsh led 52-44.

With three minutes to play, the score was 60-52 for North Marsh but the Wildcats began their threat when Wilson hit for a layup.

The Blue Wave connected on foul shots but the Wildcats kept pressing and finally drew to 63-64 with 37 seconds left.

Delmar Cammack was high for the Blue Wave with 16 points but high-scoring honors for the game went to Lapwai's Jerry Sabotta who hit for 19 markers.

North Gem took [illegible] in their battle for th[ird] [illegible] the Wilder Wildcats [illegible] to keep the edge all th[e] [illegible] posted a 52-44 wi[n].

New Dredging Laws Urged By Sportsmen

BOISE, March 20 (AP)—The Idaho Wildlife federation Saturday opened a campaign to replace Idaho's existing dredge control law with a stronger one "to insure the preservation of a natural heritage that belongs to all Idaho people for all time."

Its president, Theodore H. Wegener, filed with the secretary of state a petition for an initiative. If signed by 27,500 voters, the issue will be placed on the 1954 ballot.

"It is just good common sense to require that no scenic area be devastated by dredging if the potential profit is not large enough to pay for restoration," said Wegener. "It has been proven conclusively that dredged areas can be restored. That is all the wildlife federation is asking."

Efforts to pass a similar measure were defeated in the last legislature. The session passed one which sportsmen's group contend lacks the necessary "teeth." Wegener said the issue "cannot be decided by any lesser body that of all Idaho citizens."

The proposed law is modeled after the existing one, but with these changes:

1. It would be administered by the state board of land commissioners rather than by the state mine inspector.

2. It would require dredge operators to construct settling ponds to "reasonably clarify" the water before returning it to the streams, rather than requiring the ponds "where reasonably possible."

3. In addition to the permit now required, dredge operators would have to post a bond of $300 per acre for the land dredged to insure conformance with the law. The present law allows the mine inspector to have conditions corrected with the operator paying the bill.

4. The state fish and game department, irrigation districts and canal companies and any person or municipality are given the right to seek injunctions to halt non-complying operators. The present law lists any person, municipality, state or governmental agency as those who may seek injunctions.

5. It covers dredges with a capacity of 500 cubic yards a day instead of the present 1,000.

6. Any disturbed water course would be "replaced along meander lines with pool structures conducive to good fish and wildlife habitat and recreational use" instead of "to provide a channel for the water in such streams so that the same shall flow freely."

There are six bachelors on the Detroit Lion football squad—Jim Doran, Joe Schmidt, Harley Sewell, Dick Stanfel, Carl Karilivacs and George Gedman.

Bruneau Arm Closed To Bass Fishermen

The Bruneau arm of the C. J. Strike reservoir has been closed to bass fishing from March 24 through June 3, 1954, Ross Leonard, director of the fish and game department, announced Saturday.

Leonard said the closure was necessary because the harvest of bass became too great in the area.

The Bruneau arm is that portion between the mouth of the Bruneau river and the Bruneau gorge approximately four miles north or downstream.

Robert Irving, fish biologist for the fourth district, said approximately 170,000 large mouth bass, fry and finger length, were stocked in the Bruneau arm in 1952 to serve as a brood stock for this new body of water.

The age, growth and creel census studies conducted in this area during the past year indicate this brood stock now ranges from 9 to 18 inches in length and will spawn this spring.

A successful spawning season this spring by bass brood stock will ensure good bass fishing in this area in future years, Irving said.

Irving emphasized that the area is closed to bass fishing only. Bullhead and cat fishing will be excellent in the area beginning about the middle of April, Irving said.

Coaches Ask Revamping of Foul Rules

KANSAS CITY, March 20 (AP)—The national association of basketball coaches Saturday voted to revamp the one-and-one free throw rule to put the premium on good shooting rather than inaccuracy.

The recommendation that goes to the national rules committee Sunday gives the fouled player a second, or bonus shot, if the first shot is made. If the first shot is missed, the ball remains in play. The present rule allows a second free throw if the first is missed.

Floyd S. Stahl, chairman of the Rules Recommendation committee explained the proposal, made by coach John Bunn, Springfield (Mass.) college would again make basketball a 40-minute game.

The coaches voted Friday to ask the Rules committee to eliminate the quarter system in favor of two halves, thus cutting down on the number of stalls.

Bouts Set

SALT LAKE CITY, March 20 (AP)—Fighters from Utah and Idaho will compete in the Intermountain AAU boxing championships beginning Monday at the Fairgrounds coliseum.

Two rings will be in action during the preliminary rounds to cut the ranks of the huge entry list. Harold McNeil, general chairman, said entries would be accepted until midnight Saturday.

The weigh-in is set for Monday noon and pairings will be made thereafter.

The junior 156-pound champ from last year, Woody Turley, heads a strong team from Twin Falls. And another Idaho town, Gooding, also has a squad entered.

Giardello Batters Troy For Easy Win

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Joey Giardello, the world's second ranking middleweight contender from Philadelphia Friday night floored durable Willie Troy three times and handed the young Washington Negro a savage beating to win on a technical knockout in 39 seconds of the seventh round.

Giardello, a 13 to 10 favorite, weighed 159 to Troy's 156½.

The clever and hard-hitting Giardello dropped the 21-year-old Troy twice in the first round and once in the second round with right hand smashes. Each time the game youngster staggered to his feet at the count of three, but was given the mandatory eight count.

Troy, winner of his last seven fights by knockouts, took a brutal beating from then on but he wasn't floored again. Referee Al Berl finally stopped the slaughter after Joey walloped Willie with right straight punches to the jaw.

Even when he was obviously out on his feet, Troy gamely plodded forward as the crowd of 8,159 marvelled at his ability to absorb the fearful punishment. The gross gate was $31,225.

Magpie Control Report Reveals 21,295 Killed

A total of 21,295 magpies was destroyed in the fourth district magpie control operations for 1953-54, Hawley Hill, district supervisor for the state game and fish department, said Saturday.

In his report on the magpie control program, Hill points out that "presumably all of the 21,295 magpies killed at this time of the year eliminates that much potential brood stock from taking part in next summer's reproduction program.

"It is readily evident as to the advantages of killing base brood stock during the winter compared to robbing nests (and inviting re-nesting) of young during the summer."

Of the total kill, Custer county had the largest number with 5,036. Next in order were Cassia county 4,012; Twin Falls 2,651; Minidoka 2,174; Lemhi 2,120; Blaine 1,732; Gooding 1,654; Butte 730; Lincoln 678; Jerome 422, and Camas 86.

Of the 21,295 birds destroyed, 6,624 were killed by the conservation officers and 14,671 by extra help hired for the magpie control program. The extra help consisted mostly of state trappers.

A total of $1,941.28 was spent for extra help.

Hill's report states there was quite a bit of variation of birds killed from locality to locality because of the difference in brush cover, snow storms and blizzards.

A fair amount of control work was done by private cooperators, Hill said. Results of their efforts are not included in his report.

Wayne Cummings, Sterling Kuhlman and Harrett Sondermeyer are the only three holdouts left and these, says Schaack, are expected to come to terms in the immediate future.

Yankees Finally Succeed In Luring John Sain Back

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Pitcher Johnny Sain, who said four months ago he was through with baseball, reported Friday afternoon to his old team, the New York Yankees.

The 36-year-old righthander telephoned George Weiss, general manager of the Yankees, upon his arrival. He worked out Saturday with rookies and injured players left behind while the major part of the team is in Miami for the New York-Brooklyn series.

Weiss said it never was a question of money that caused Sain to decide to give up baseball, but it was the problem of getting a responsible man to take over Sain's automobile agency at Walnut Ridge, Ark.

Because of the sale of Vic Raschi to the St. Louis Cardinals and the retirement of Ewell Blackwell with a sore arm, the Yankees had made repeated efforts to lure Sain back into the fold. A final offer of $30,000, an increase of $8,000 over last season, is reported to have helped hurry Sain here.

The Yankees, who have been suffering repeated reverses in spring games, were elated over the news.

Johnny came to the Yankees from the National league Braves on Aug. 29, 1951. He won two games in the club's late season drive for the flag.

The curve-balling righthander compiled an 11-6 record in 1952 as the Bombers made it four pennants in a row under manager Casey Stengel. As a starter and reliefer last year, he got into 40 games and finished with an earned run average of 3.00.

Sain was a 20 game winner four times for the Braves and was instrumental in their capturing the 1948 National league pennant.

Apparently Johnny hadn't even told Stengel about his decision to return.

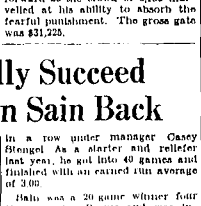

"It's news to me. I haven't heard anything about it," the manager declared, when asked what he thought of the pitcher's return.

Easter Hats Are Just Plain Pretty This Year

More flowers than ever bloom on Easter hats this year. We show here four versions, all of them small and all of them flower-laden. Plateau of pink honeysuckle blossoms (left) by Laddie Northridge has green organdy stems massed at tip of crown with ends swirled to one side. Shallow young cloche in citron yellow toyo (upper center) is banded with three tones of cashmere embroidery and trimmed with daisy and bee. Bonnet with rippled brim (lower center) by Harryson is natural rough straw, has clover blossoms tucked into the ripples. Narrow oval sailor of natural milan (right) is by Chanda, has brim faced with leaf-green silk jersey. Crown is circled with pink and red roses. The all-flower hat also will star in the Easter parade in tiny versions.

* * * * * * * *

Fragile and Flower-Laden Hat Will Set Off Slim, Simple Wear

NEW YORK, March 20 (NEA)—The hat you wear in the Easter parade this year will be just plain pretty. And the reason for this feminity is that the suit or coat you pick for parading will be slim, with simple lines, providing the perfect foil for a fragile, flower-laden hat.

There are lots of flower trims this year, far more than in past Easters. And the flower hat looks not only pretty but smart. Little flower-covered shells, the hat made to look like a Victorian nosegay and dahlias or lilacs pressed into sailors or bretons, all have a refreshing newness to offer.

The tint of your flowered hat may be in the pink to red tones, may be one of the nasturtium colors or may be fresh, flattering white. If your suit or coat has collar and cuffs in white, you can find good company for it in a white hat or you can spark it with color by picking a vibrant pink or red.

For the silk suit or dress, print or plain, there are fragile organdy and straw confections that provide the needed delicacy.

A brim is any size at all this spring, from a mere rim to the truly large hat that, this year, is anchored firmly to the head by means of those little grippers developed since last Easter.

For the women who are wearing long-haired furs with their Easter suits, the small hat in chiffon or organdy is the best bet. There are many such small hats in forward, profile or level-headed treatments. Some of these are pleated, some draped, and some embroidered.

No Expert Is Necessary to Sew Articles

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

There's no chance that we'll ever see the return of the old-fashioned girl with her hooped skirts, shy manners and talc-powdered nose. But it would seem that the girls are having a change of heart in one direction, at least.

These days it's not unusual at all to hear that the girl who can't even sew on a button" is undertaking to make some of her own clothes. Women are discovering that's one way to get exactly what they want.

And actually, the modern girl need not be an expert seamstress in order to make some of the simpler things in her wardrobe. The new sewing machines have taken virtually all of the guesswork out of sewing.

Accessories are a good sewing choice for the girl who lacks time or patience to attempt big projects. Stoles, scarves, shrugs, gloves, hats and cummerbunds are among the items she can tackle without going in over her head.

We suggest making a stole and glove set of versatile wool jersey in a neutral shade. You'll find that the work will go quickly and that the set will prove a real boon to your spring wardrobe.

To make the stole, you will need 30 inches of jersey tubing. Fold the material diagonally and cut it apart along the fold, saving one half for the gloves.

Baste a hem an inch and one half deep. Then use a fancy machine stitch to trim the edges of the diagonal sides. Make a plain hem across the straight edge. Trim with ball fringe on the diagonal edges.

Use a standard pattern for the gloves and decorate the backs and wrists with the design you created for the diagonal edges of the stole. Seam gloves and trim with fringe.

To enable the sewer to make really distinctive trimmings, one manufacturer of sewing machines recently imported a portable machine from Switzerland that features double needle stitching.

This same machine is also said to produce a stitch that stretches with the fabric, making it especially good for such garments as gloves and bathing suits or for any fabric with some "give," such as jersey.

Hair Styling Of Spring Is Still "Fluid"

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Hair styles for spring and summer will continue to accent the fluid but controlled lines that made news last fall. This comes straight from New York's top coiffure creators.

The future points to femininity without frivolity, neatness without severity, individuality without affectation. It would seem that standards of styling in this era of short hair are finally well established.

A key word in the current trend is mobility. We saw it in last year's Italian cut. Since that much-publicized hairdo offered nothing beyond movement in all different directions, its popularity was short-lived. However, it did herald a new direction in styling.

In the past year American stylists have been adapting the mobility of the Italian cut to the American look. The results have been notable.

Our stylists have tempered the mobility with considerable restraint, giving us a look that is at once free and controlled, sleek and fragile.

And, because mobility remains the key to the styling, the possibilities for variety are limitless.

For spring, stylish Henry of the Roosevelt is taking his cue from the fashion world and accenting youth.

"Even the sophisticated slim fashions have a supple rather than a slinky look," Henry pointed out. "And, of course," he added, "the Empire waistline and the princess line are most important.

"So, to complement these styles, I have introduced the Botticelli angel cut. It features individually placed half curls that have a frankly sentimental feeling, and, like a little girl's they are carefully combed."

The chop-chop cut and the Nina are also among this stylist's spring and summer innovations.

The fluidity of the new mode of hair styling is most evident in the first, which falls into a new pattern at the command of the brush.

To create this cut, Henry shapes and molds the hair to the head in layers. Consequently, he says, this casual style never loses its "just brushed" neatness.

The Nina cut is Henry's interpretation of sophistication for spring. The smooth, precise cap from crown to nape is softened by a few strategically placed kiss curls at the forehead and over the ears.

RECORD MADE

GOODING, March 20—A Guernsey cow owned by Kenneth H. Daniel, Gooding, recently produced 10,570 pounds of milk and 461 pounds of butterfat for the highest record ever made by a Guernsey in Idaho.

Hemlines Are Settling at Mid-Calf

Fashions from Paris this spring include something for everybody, with no arbitrary rules. Jacques Fath stresses the feminine in his designs, does an informal light gray flannel dress, left, with shoulder-wide self-collar that stands away from the neck. This is filled in with plain yoke of white linen. Tucked and fitted dress, center, by Carven is in ecru cotton with heavy embroidery in same shade on tiny cap sleeves. Christian Dior's lily-of-the-valley line appears in a leaf green silk surah afternoon dress, right with easy-fitting bloused bodice. Sailor collar ties at front for "little ..." look of all Dior models.

Graduate Has Challenge for New Clothing

By NEA

You girls to whom graduation from high school is no longer in the dim future have something mighty important to add to your shopping considerations this spring. And that is, of course, the new way of life you soon will be entering.

Whether you will be job-hunting this June or next or acquainting yourselves with the halls of higher learning, from now on you should select your clothes with that in mind.

Then, when the time comes to take the big step, you won't be caught short with a closet full of clothes that in one way or another are not quite right.

Probably nothing could be a better choice right now, regardless of your plans, than a navy blue suit of simple, classic lines. Since you will be expecting a lot from it, you should invest in one that boasts both a sturdy fabric and good tailoring. A slim skirt with a full hem is a wise choice since it will adapt itself to new hem lengths with the greatest of ease.

A crisp white blouse in opaque nylon or dacron is a fashion-right choice and the height of practicality.

Select your handbags with an eye to the future, too. You will be glad later on if you invest a few extra dollars in one of good calf.

You would also be wise to be conservative in selecting shoes. If it's pavement-pounding for you this June, a medium-heel pump in soft, pliable leather is a must. In fact, it's just about the best choice for anyone.

Now, one can carry good sense too far. Spring, after all, is a time for feeling light and gay. So let the buoyancy go to your head—and your hands.

Get a hat that's right for you as you are today, not as you will be next year.

Spring Silhouette Emphasizes No Hips; Hems Reach Mid-Calf

By ROSETTE HARGROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS, March 20 (NEA) — The silhouette that designers have created this spring is that of a well-proportioned woman. This means a high bust, normal but slender waistline and no hips (!). Those of you who can rearrange your figures quickly to achieve this ideal are luckier than most of us.

Hemlines, anyway, have settled at mid-calf for daytime and at the ankle for short evening gowns. And there are plenty of fashion types for everyone: Feminine and fluffy, subtle and sophisticated, trim and practical.

Clothes that are simple, practical and wearable are in every collection. But it's a deceptive simplicity, with a technique of cut that's definitely 1954. Even the simplest model reveals the use of darts, fabrics cut on the bias and a new handling of skirt fullness, usually fanned out over stiff petticoats.

Details, too, are different this year. Dior has returned the sailor collar to favor while Fath sponsors the Quaker collar and de Givenchy uses buttons that are both decorative and functional.

The pastel shades dominate the daytime picture. The new suits and ensembles are offered in soft shades of pink, blue, green, yellow, mauve and string, oatmeal and beige. White is shown everywhere and black is outdistanced by navy. Prints are an all-out revival both for day and evening.

Underlining the new simplicity are beautiful fabrics with a luxury look. Mixtures of wool and silk, silk and nylon or acetate, silk and wool appear side by side with cotton, which is definitely luxurious in its many new guises: Poplin, taffeta, satin, faille and ottoman, both in monotones and prints.

Child's Fashions Are Answer To Changing Spring Weather

NEW YORK, March 20 (NEA)—Springing from the unpredictable Easter weather of years past, children's fashions this year reflect the need for clothes that can double for warm or chilly days.

Lightweight suits to be worn under a coat, dresses that span the seasons and the long coat are all new for Easter 1954, are all the results of varying spring weather.

The two most important fashion themes for teenagers and girls are the little boy look and the completely feminine look. The little boy look is expressed by the Edwardian coats, and suits, and blouses and dresses cut with shirt lines. For the feminine look, there are the princess coats, costume suits and the wide-skirted dresses stemming from the princess and Empire silhouettes.

In the little boy coats, outstanding colors are gray and navy. Princess coats are best-liked in pale pastels and pretty watermelon pink. The little boy coat fools the eye in that while front and back are cut on straight lines, the sides provide enough fullness to be worn easily over layers of petticoats.

The span-season dresses are meant for wear under a coat Easter Sunday and after, then on into the summer. Cottons, semi-sheer silks and synthetics are important to these dresses. Many of them are cut in the princess or Empire silhouettes.

Lightweight separates that have a suit look and cotton separates that appear to be a one-piece dress also will parade in some parts of the country this Easter. These suit separates usually have unlined jackets, can be worn under a coat now and alone later on.

Wool Offered in Every Weight For New Fashions This Spring

NEW YORK— March 20 (NEA)—Wool in spring fashions is offered in every possible weight, from sheer, feather-light dress fabrics to the thick and bubbly fleeces used for coats.

There are thin, 7½-ounce worsteds, wool lace tailored into town costumes and checks in flat, lightweight woolens.

Wool is a surprising combination when paired with chiffon. It's equally eye-catching in a coat of green felt or one in orange with spongy texture. Such coats are often seen over plain, straight sheath dresses in silk.

There are lots of the highly acceptable silk-wool blends for coats of great elegance, many of these with attractive clear red or black-and-white print linings.

Tweed, usually considered a fall fabric, has become increasingly popular for spring wear in lightweights during recent seasons. This year, it appears in soft colors and a very light weight. Such colors as mimosa, heather, blue with violet undertones, burnt sugar and a new chili-red define these tweeds as belonging especially to spring.

Generally, spring woolens have a soft look whether in dresses, suits or coats. They take on the character of this spring's very feminine-looking clothes.

The party coat, that made its bow last spring, is back again this year in light-colored woolens. These are trimmed with embroidery or fur for a look of real luxury.

New Material Used to Keep Gowns Fresh

NEW YORK, Mar 20 (NEA)—Now that the short evening gown is firmly established (many spring collections show no long evening gowns), designers are devising ways to keep these [illegible] fresh and crisp.

Prominent in the spring collections is a nonwoven fabric that is both mystery and miracle. It's almost invisible as lining for both the skirts and taffeta slips in bouffant gowns. But once it's in, the clothes that it lines can be wadded into a suitcase and come out days later without need for pressing. Similarly, hats given a pellon lining can be squashed flat, then will spring right back into shape.

This "miracle" lining is used even inside swimsuits, to cling close as skin without need for boning. Petticoats of lace-or broidered net will retain their full [illegible] even after long use.

All of this means that all fashions given such lining can pack well, be crushed, and still spring back into shape, and maintain indefinitely the attractive lines that they had when they first came from the store.

PTA to Meet

MURTAUGH, March 20— The Murtaugh PTA will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the high school. The program on health and safety will be presented by Mrs. Pruett Goodman.

Officers will be installed and by-laws will be adopted.

Favored Wool Fabric Is Featherweight

The wool dress, an outstanding fashion this spring, is shown here in three versions: jacket dress, bolero dress and princess silhouette. Nettie Rosenstein's precisely-tailored jacket dress (left), is in light-weight wool worsted with miniature checks in gray-and-white. There's a cut-away weskit to fit smoothly and slender dress with halter neckline beneath. Jet-black, feather-weight wool is cut by this [illegible] dress with cap sleeves and shallow V neckline topped [illegible] ing bolero. Princess dress with empire influence (right) is [illegible] McCardell in avocado green featherweight wool. Skirt has [illegible] achieved by all-around goring. Short sleeves are crescent [illegible]

New Type of Furniture Is Saving Space

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Plotting a place to eat is a never for the girl who keeps house in a small apartment. For that matter, in many small homes there is no adequate dining space.

When an apartment's sole concession to the need of the tenants for food is to line up the ice box, sink and stove in an alcove in the wall or hall or to box them in an "efficiency" kitchen, it's hardly surprising that finding space for leisurely eating would be left to the ingenuity of the homemaker.

When I kept house in an apartment, I could stir the spaghetti on the stove, get the baby's bottle out of the ice box and open the front door to greet the dinner guests without moving more than a foot in any direction. Our one large room was a triple threat—living, dining and sleeping. Cozy is one way of describing it.

If you're trying to wangle dining space out of a similar dilemma, here are some suggestions:

If you're in the market for a table and chairs, you'll find new designs which cater to the needs without exhausting the bank account. For example, one new table is long and narrow and serves as a space-saving side table or a generous dining table.

Slim black satin tubing legs give X-shaped support to a black, wood-grain, plastic laminate top which features 10-inch drop leaves at each end.

Closed, the table measures 40 by 28 inches. Companion chairs upholstered in a plastic which simulates hand-loomed black and white tweed are light and comfortable. Because of the heat-and-scratch-resistant top, this table can move later into a more spacious dream kitchen.

Another new plastic-topped table, equally sturdy and suitable for small apartments, owes its streamlining to a gate-leg design. Side leaves are flipped up and locked in place by a slight nudge of the foot against the leg.

With a package of four wrought-iron legs and a narrow slab of plywood from the lumber yard you can make your own table. If you object to the exposed edges of the wood, cover them with half-round molding tacked in place and painted, or stained, to match the top.

Although old-time hand-me-downs are apt to be too bulky for a small room, a friend of mine used an old pine trestle table to good advantage.

She shoved one end against the wall at right angles to her kitchen. Then she painted it to match the room's walls—a pale, silvery gray.

Matching benches also felt the touch of the paint brush. Seat pads were cut from foam rubber and upholstered in a modern geometric print to match the drapes.

New Officers

HAILEY, March 20—The Hailey Toastmasters club elected officers for the coming year at a meeting Wednesday evening. John McMonigle was named as president, Ray McCoy, vice president; Richard Nelson, Triumph, secretary; Ed Kanerva, sergeant-at-arms; C. C. Livingston, Triumph, educational chairman, and Wesley Carlson, deputy governor.

Installation will be held at a ladies night party March 29 at Trail creek lodge, Sun Valley.

Squaw Dresses Are Featured in Dallas

These clothes, designed in Dallas, reflect the atmosphere of the Southwest. Patio separates (left) combine rhumba blouse with full four-gore skirt that has screen print of Mexican hats in beige and black. Imported cotton is used for trim business suit (center) with rounded shoulder line and fitted, belted jacket. Stand-up collar is in Irish linen. Mix-match coordinates in white pique are a special design for the expectant mother; have rick-rack trim in contrasting color. There's a skirt to complete this trio.

Cotton Prints With Swinging Full Skirts Meet With Favor

DALLAS, March 20 (NEA)—Cotton is king here in the southwest and, therefore, nearly all the fashions now being shown here are in cotton. This means many cotton prints, a number of these cut with full-swinging skirts.

Sheers have far more importance than they had last year, with emphasis on voiles, striped and printed dimities, tissue chambrays and tissue ginghams. There's a strong liking for textured cottons designed for both town and travel. These include some Swiss and Italian imports as well as pique, honan, faille and the cotton satins, pimas and poplins.

Screen prints are well liked, many of them appearing in full skirts. A black-and-white print skirt will be paired with a top in a solid color, such as black.

Squaw dresses and skirts are so popular that they're shown in entire groups, some in Indian prints and many handled as versatile separates.

Just as with the prints, the tiered squaw skirt is often paired with a no-iron black top.

Skirts for sundresses are fuller than they were last year, many of these having a very wide sweep. Built-in bras are used for the strapless or halter tops, most of these shown with brief jackets. Stoles are not seen as often as they were a year ago. Best-liked fabrics for these sundresses are the spaced white prints and the baby checked ginghams.

There are lots of black cottons, and black denim is stressed for summer-into-fall wear. Black also is combined with sparkling white and with beige.

New Type of Furniture Is Saving Space

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Plotting a place to eat is a must for the girl who keeps house in a small apartment. For that matter, in many small homes there is no adequate dining space.

When an apartment's sole concession to the need of the tenant for food is to line up the ice box, sink and stove in an alcove in the wall or hall or to box them in an "efficiency" kitchen, it's hardly surprising that finding space for leisurely eating would be left to the ingenuity of the homemaker.

When I kept house in an apartment, I could stir the spaghetti on the stove, get the baby's bottle out of the ice box and open the front door to greet the dinner guests without moving more than a foot in any direction. Our one large room was a triple threat—living, dining and sleeping. Cozy is one way of describing it.

If you're trying to wangle dining space out of a similar dilemma, here are some suggestions:

If you're in the market for a table and chairs, you'll find new designs which cater to the needs without exhausting the bank account. For example, one new table is long and narrow and serves as a space-saving side table or a generous dining table.

Slim black satin tubing legs give X-shaped support to a black, wood-grain, plastic-laminate top which features 10 inch drop leaves at each end.

Closed, the table measures 40 by 28 inches. Companion chairs upholstered in a plastic which simulates hand-loomed black and white tweed are light and comfortable. Because of the heat-and-scratch-resistant top, this table can move later into a more spacious dream kitchen.

Another new plastic-topped table, equally sturdy and suitable for small apartments, owes its streamlining to a gate-leg design. Side leaves are flipped up and locked in place by a slight nudge of the foot against the leg.

With a package of four wrought-iron legs and a narrow slab of plywood from the lumber yard you can make your own table. If you object to the exposed edges of the wood, cover them with half-round molding tacked in place and painted, or stained, to match the top.

Although old-time hand-me-downs are apt to be too bulky for a small room, a friend of mine used an old pine trestle table to good advantage.

She shoved one end against the wall at right angles to her kitchen. Then she painted it to match the room's walls—a pale, silvery gray.

Matching benches also felt the touch of the paint brush. Seat pads were cut from foam rubber and upholstered in a modern geometric print to match the drapes.

New Officers

HAILEY, March 20—The Hailey Toastmasters club elected officers for the coming year at a meeting Wednesday evening. John McMonigle was named as president, Ray McCoy, vice president; Richard Nelson, Triumph, secretary; Ed Kaneva, sergeant-at-arms; O. C. Livingston, Triumph, educational chairman, and Wesley Carlson, deputy governor.

Installation will be held at a ladies night party March 29 at Trail creek lodge, Sun Valley.

Sajous, [...]tor of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers.

Sajous, whose association has a membership of 2,800 retail stores, believes that now the ice has been broken, men's desire for greater variety in clothes will increase. He says:

"The first general move away from the blue serge suit was the widespread acceptance of sports coats throughout the country. Though many people believe this fashion started on the west coast, I think we probably borrowed the idea from Britain. There it was a style that grew out of the native thrift of the Scotch and English, who would continue to wear a favorite jacket after the trousers had worn out."

The sport coat and slacks outfit has become practically a uniform outside New York, for business as well as sports wear, says Sajous. He decries this trend, says clothiers are trying to educate their customers to the importance of dressing for the occasion. A business suit should be worn to the office, a sports jacket for casual occasions.

A fad which has swept the country in the last year or so is the fancy vest, which is said to be even more popular throughout the country than in New York. The top choice in vests is the Tattersall check, with eye-catchers such as fireman red flannel or silk brocades also selling surprisingly well, especially in college and university areas.

Walking shorts also are growing in popularity, says Sajous. These are the knee-length shorts, usually in dark flannel, seen increasingly in evidence for country week-ends and resort wear.

A lucrative new field for clothiers also is that of leisure or knockabout clothes. The "do-it-yourself" trend in American homes has given rise to a demand for clothes to fit the job. These are a cross between sports and work clothes, often being restyled dungarees, denim jackets and casual shirts designed specifically for working around the house, puttering in the garden, or just doing nothing.

Easter Companion: Fur Jacket

For Easter Sunday, 1954, furs can be simple or lavish. Fox bon, left, in golden glory, newest fox mutation, is a lustrous golden bronze shot through with silver. This box was designed for suit wear. Luxurious wrap capelet, center, replaces the traditional fox jacket. Is in pale shade of blue fox. A three-tiered capelet it has skins worked horizontally. Pocket style, right, also is three tiered but tapers to points at front for slim effect. All three designs are by Reynard

Spring's Straight and Narrow Suits, Coats "Perfect" for Fur

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK, March 20 (NEA)—This spring's straight and narrow suits and coats are the perfect companion for furs.

The short and molded cape jacket in many versions will parade proudly on Easter Sunday, showing off collars that focus attention because of shoulder-framing lines. Some of them jut out and others are pointed. But all of them are more feminine and therefore prettier than in the past.

Cape jackets generally are cut shorter this spring and thus have sleeves that are three-quarter or elbow length. Sleeves may taper off or they may be finished with wide bands that simulate cuffs.

The slim box jacket has straight lines this year with controlled fullness rather than bulk. Sleeves are tapered here, too, and finished with small cuffs.

Long stoles, tiny capelets and boleros will take part in the Easter parade, too. Stoles are shaped to the shoulders and many have little stand-up collars to frame a pretty face. But where shaping is not sufficient to hold a stole to the shoulders, wide silk straps are used. This way, there's no need for women to clutch at a slipping stole as they've had to do formerly.

Many stoles have long, straight front panels but even when they're done in a fur like fox, designers have worked to eliminate a feeling of bulk. This year's furs are lighter, more pliable, are handled with the ease of cloth.

Visits Announced

FILER, March 20—Mrs. Ronald Durgans and son have returned to Idaho Falls after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith and family.

Mrs. John Wirth, Summitt, N. J., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Davis.

Hats Are Forward but Still Level

Little hats with a level look make the most fashion news this spring. We show here (upper left) a little profile bonnet of ice blue straw by Sally Victor. This has long-stemmed roses in red and pink at one side with stems entwined on crown. Hat with visored segment brim (upper right) is by Harryson in vivid Granada orange toyo. It's topped with whip and silk pompoms in matching orange. Hat made of row-on-row of black-and-natural milan straw (lower left) is edged with flange of velvet. This is a Chanda design. Neat toque of yellow toyo by Sally Victor has wing of the straw at one side (lower center) for dramatic flair. Opal straw with a pearly look is used (lower right) by Beatrice Martin for shallow bonnet trimmed with white silk rose and pearlized quills. The small, pretty look of spring hats is keyed to the slim lines of ready-to-wear.

Small Hats Considered Smart For Wear With New Fashions

NEW YORK, March 20 (NEA)—Hats are flat, forward and generally on the level this spring. The smaller the hat you put on your head, the smarter you'll look. Hats actually aren't silver-dollar size yet, but they're coming close.

The new shallow crowns have been designed to keep company with the short hairdo, the kind of cut that American women continue to find prettiest and most efficient. But even so, brims appear on nearly all hats and vary from the narrowest rim to the cartwheel.

Level hats and the forward pose are given handling that turns them out "small and pretty," exactly right for the slim lines and simplicity of spring clothes. And femininity is achieved through use of soft, rippled effects, fragile flowers as trimming and pale but glowing colors.

Even the profile hat is not tilted this year. It gains a side-swept look through deft twists of the brim, but it's actually worn straight on.

The forward-posed watteau gets flowers as trim most often, in order to convey an impression of ladylike beauty. These start in the tiniest shapes and continue on up to the larger, plateau types.

Vivid color is sprinkled through all of the collections by the top designers: shocking pink, turquoise, sunny yellows, parakeet greens and sapphire blues. But there's a whole rainbow of pastels and many natural straws. White is important, too, but it's most often a white with a dash of color added.

Expert Finds Climate Study In New Book

By J. HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, Extension Divi[illegible] Oregon Higher E[illegible] System

Fresh off the Harvard university press at Cambridge, Mass., comes a new book, Climatic Change. It consists of 22 interesting chapters, written by as many scientists, each a noted authority in his ("her," in one case) field.

Dr. Pruett

Many evidences show us that our old earth during the past two billion years has undergone many climatic changes. At times, the Arctic regions for long periods were so warm that life such as we know in the temperate zones existed there.

Later—and with many repetitions—huge ice sheets (glaciers) covered large sections of the earth's surface which we now know as land areas. Glaciers are still known in some parts of the world, but we are not at present in an ice age. The end of the most recent major glacial period is placed at about 8,500 BC by one of the authors.

How do we know about these past changes of climate? One chapter of this interesting book discusses the soil changes due to climate. Fairly recent changes are determined from the inspection of the annual growth of the rings in trees. The study of fossils, those buried remnants of life extending back into millions of years ago, are splendid indicators of ancient climates. Land plants—and they have been on earth for more than a billion years—are the very best sources of information of changing conditions.

Since it is abundantly established that terrestrial climate has gone through many ice ages and periods of unusual warmth, we naturally ask, "What has been the cause of all this?" The general concensus of the authors is that it was due to changes in the radiation received from the sun along with fluctuations in land elevations.

Now what can an increase about once every quarter billion years in solar heat received? Some blame it on changes in the shape of the earth's orbit and the inclinations of the earth's poles to the plane of its orbit. Spots on the sun are known to have effect, even at the present time. There are clouds of dust and gas in interstellar space.

One writer estimates that the sun and its planets have passed through such clouds several times with resulting changes in the solar heat reaching the earth. Huge amounts of dust thrown up by major volcanic eruptions also have a marked effect.

It is known that minor temperance changes take place during the 11-year cycle of sunspot activity. The Dakotas and Montana in January average seven to eight degrees colder during maxima than during minima. Records indicate that there have been general rising average temperatures the past two centuries. We are now about two-thirds along from a maximum to minimum glaciations. There is a recession of glaciation all over the world.

Anthrax Noted in Bull From Idaho

BOISE, March 20 (AP)—Dr. A. P. Schneider, state veterinarian, said today the California bureau of animal industry reported that a bull consigned to a Los Angeles market from eastern Idaho was condemned because of anthrax disease.

Schneider, who said the animal was one of nine bulls consigned from Idaho Falls, noted that it was the first report of anthrax in an Idaho animal in more than 27 years.

The veterinarian said it was discovered that the bulls came from five ranches, and that further investigation into cattle herds on the ranches turned up no other [illegible] of the highly fatal disease.

Schneider also reported that his department has isolated a [illegible] of listerosis in [illegible] cattle [illegible] Bruneau area and has [illegible] animals to watch [illegible]

Soybeans Hit Peak to Lead Grain Market

CHICAGO, March 20 (AP)—A roaring soybean market in the last day of the week provided the only vigorous show of strength in grains on the board of trade this week.

Grains other than soybeans generally closed lower. Lard, however was very strong much of the week, setting new seasonal highs. Rye suffered the most pressure [illegible] close to the seasonal [illegible] was.

Wheat ended the week [illegible] lower, corn 1⅛ lower to [illegible] higher, oats 1[illegible] lower to 1⅜ higher, rye 1⅞-4½ cents [illegible] soybeans [illegible] to 11 cents higher and lard 10 cents to $1.58 a hundred pounds higher.

The big gain in soybeans was in the old crop months all of which hit season tops. Gains in these deliveries ranged from 9½ to 11 cents. The May future sold up to $3.64¼ best price for any soybean future since 1947. Bean oil and bean meal sold at new 1954 highs.

Wheat ran into profit taking during the week and rye was down with wheat. Lard responded to a report of very small Chicago lard stocks as of March 15. Feed grains were held back by uncertainty regarding the government crop report, issued after the close Friday, on farmers' intentions to plant.

The department said indicated corn acreage was 81,037,000 acres compared with 81,403,000 harvested last year. This drop of only 366,000 acres compares with a government request for a cut of about [illegible] acres.
